Hanoi List Fine,
Full Report the Aim

PARIS — Washington is grateful for a list of 12 American fliers received from Hanoi, who said the fliers were killed during the Vietnam War. But the United States says it has no intention of normalizing relations with Vietnam until Hanoi accounts for all the 795 missing U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia.

A press statement accompanying the list expressed Hanoi's desire to restart at the earliest possible date the stalled talks on U.S. aid to war-damaged Vietnam. The 12-man list gave the men's name, rank, branch of service and serial number, but no details on when, where or how they died.

Former Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas suffered a fractured hip and underwent an operation on Monday, according to a spokesman at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington.

461 Lost Lives
During the Holiday

CHICAGO—The National Safety Council estimated there would be 360 to 460 traffic deaths during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend and the count early this morning showed the experts' expectations were exceeded by one—there were 461 deaths reported so far in traffic mishaps.

California reported 43 traffic deaths, Texas 41, Illinois and Ohio 23 each, Michigan 19 and New York and Pennsylvania 18 each. Traffic fatality-free holiday weekends were reported in Alaska, Vermont, North Dakota and the District of Columbia. The boost in traffic deaths was attributed to increased driving.

War Ace Does It,
But Off the Target

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. — I was very tired," Japanese World War II flying ace Shoji Kawamoto, 51, said on stepping out of his single-engine Comanche 260 plane at a small northern California airfield. His destination was Seattle, Wash., but he landed 400 miles off target after becoming the first pilot to complete a solo nonstop flight across the Pacific in a single-engine aircraft.

"I did it for the Bicentennial spirit," said Kawamoto, who now lives in the United States. He told reporters in Tokyo he conceived the idea of flying over the Pacific in order to console the souls of Japanese and Allied troops killed during the war. (More on Page 14.)

Ford Preparing
New Offer for UAW

DETROIT — Sidney McKenna, Ford Motor Co.'s chief negotiator said, after a brief Labor Day bargaining session Monday with the United Workers Union, the company is preparing a second contract offer but the exact timing has not been decided.

The company hopes the second contract will be more acceptable to United Auto Workers Union, whose 170,000 members at the No. 2 auto company are poised for a strike at midnight next Tuesday. (More on Page 18.)

'Just Another Day Out of Work'

By SID LEAVITT
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — "Labor Day to the unemployed means just another day out of work."

Joseph M. Roglieri, president of the Ulster County Building Trades Council, was expressing an apt Labor Day sentiment: Of the thousands of tradesmen covered by his group, nearly two out of three Monday had no jobs to stay home from.

Of the council's 1,500 Kingston members, nearly 10 per cent are now on welfare. Another 50 to 60 per cent, while not yet on welfare, nevertheless are unemployed, Roglieri told the Freeman in a Labor Day interview.

"You know, April to October used to be our productive period. Not just 100 per cent employment — 150 per cent employment where outside labor had to come in and help," he said.

"But for several years now, there have been no major projects going on in Kingston and the Ulster County area. . . . No matter what they say about the (Kingston) north-south arterial, the (Benedictine) hospital job, it's still just talk."

Hardest hit among area trades, Roglieri said, are the bricklayers and laborers. Some laborers, he said, have been out of work for three years, about the time that area construction has been nosediving.

Roglieri, 45, a roofer by trade, has himself been unemployed from time to time over the years — "but the longest was maybe four or five months, nothing like this nine, ten months or more that most of these guys have been out."

Union work rosters are set up on a rotation basis — longest on the list without work, first to be called. But lists in some trades have stretched to include nearly the entire union, "and some of the lists haven't rotated once."

Most unions don't encourage taking jobs outside the trade: "A man is supposed to be on call at all times. If I can't get the man at the top of the list, I call the next one," Roglieri said.

"A man may miss a four- or five-month job because he went to work picking apples for two weeks."

For most tradesmen, the union is the source of fringe benefits that many other professions receive from their companies — insurance, sick leave, vacations and retirement.

"On a union job, you get paid only for the hours you work. And when the contractor is done with you, he doesn't keep you around to pick up paper. He sends you back to the union hall to look for another job."

Most unions don't have large forced-saving programs because most union laborers don't make the large amounts ascribed to them by rumor, Roglieri said, citing $9,000 to $10,000 a year as the average union wage.

Unless he has forced himself to save and unless he has a wife with a good job, the unemployed worker, union or otherwise, can find Labor Day a difficult holiday to bear, Roglieri said.

"The children go back to school with no new clothes, and you wonder where the food is coming from."

Council Rejects Pyrolysis as Landfill Substitute
New Waste Process
Too Costly for UC

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — The county's Environmental Management Council has put what appears to be the final lid on arguments for Ulster's participation in a regional pyrolysis resource recovery system.

In an evaluation of the proposed project sent to the public health committee of the legislature, Donald C. Bruyn, chairman of the council, concludes that the "costs and results of the PUROX

The report further recommends that the legislature proceed with plans for a solid waste management plant that is better designed to meet the needs and revenues of county communities.

Pyrolysis is a relatively new process of converting solid waste into re-usable energy by trapping escaping gases from the processing of wastes in an oxygen free environment.

During the past year the county has been looking into the possibility of joining a regional co-operative that would build and maintain a pyrolysis plant in Dutchess county.

The main argument against the proposal had been that much of the solid waste would have to be trucked as far as 35 miles across the river to the Dutchess plant.

The Environmental Management Council has added the drawbacks of

MARKET BASKET
City Food Prices Drop

KINGSTON — Shopping for a family of four in Kingston cost 1.7 per cent less for the week ending September 4 than for the previous week and was from 2 to 6 per cent cheaper than shopping anywhere else in the county, according to reports from the Ulster County Consumer Information Service.

A 41-item market basket cost $65.60 for the week, compared to a $66.65 total during the last week of August.

The market basket index is based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's moderate cost family food plan and includes various foods which should be consumed in order to provide a nutritious diet.

The Wawarsing-Ellenville market basket was 2 per cent more expensive than Kingston, totaling $66.82, followed by New Paltz-Rosendale-Port Ewen at $67.31 (2.8 per cent higher) and Woodstock-Saugerties at $66.55 (4.7 per cent higher).

The Marlboro-Lloyd district remained the most expensive place to shop for food in the county, ringing in at $69.42 (6 per cent higher than Kingston).

On an overall county-wide basis, the market basket cost for the week ending September 4 was $67.52, a decline of .3 per cent over the previous period.

Supermarket sales on meats and fish as well as generally reduced prices for fresh produce were credited for the total decline.

The lone area showing an increase in costs was dairy products, with cheese up about 11 per cent and milk about 5 per cent.

Boiceville Bridge Work Progresses

Tom Barnes of Kingston soaks up the late summer sun as he works on the Five Arches Bridge at Boiceville. Concrete was poured recently and will be cured for about a month, when guard rails will be installed. The deck on the other side of the railing was poured last fall and now carries one-way Route 28A traffic over the Esopus Creek.

Defecting Soviet Pilot Will Fly to U.S.

TOKYO (UPI) — A Soviet air force officer who defected and landed his top secret MIG25 Foxbat fighter plane in Japan will be flown to the United States Wednesday, the Tokyo Metropolitan Police Agency announced today.

1st. Lt. Viktor Ivanovich Belenko, 29, was whisked secretly to Tokyo Tuesday in a Japanese military transport aircraft, escorted by fighter planes of Japan's Air Self Defense Force.

Police said he was in a secret hideout in the Tokyo area awaiting a flight to the United States.

Belenko, who outwitted Japan's radar screens to land his plane at Hakodate City 500 miles north of Tokyo, won permission earlier in the day to seek political asylum in the United States.

(In Paris, U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters he believed the United States would grant asylum to the defecting pilot.)

The Japanese government also refused a Soviet request to immediately return the MIG25, considered to be the world's most advanced aircraft.

The defector and his stolen plane.

Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa said the Japanese government approved the pilot's request from a "humanitarian standpoint."

The Foreign Ministry said one of its officials interviewed the pilot, identified as Viktor Ivanovich Belenko, 29, and confirmed he made the decision voluntarily.

The Japanese and American governments were in consultation on his possible flight to the United States.

Miyazawa said no final decision had been made on whether asylum would be granted because Washington was believed to be taking "various circumstances into consideration."

Moscow, which also demanded the return of the pilot, said it wanted one of its diplomats to interview Belenko.

The request was denied on grounds the pilot did not want to see his countryman and had sought asylum voluntarily.

Congress Is Taking Power Over Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the next two weeks Congress will complete a revolution it launched two years ago, in which it took over the planning of the federal budget from the president.

In the next few days, each house of Congress will vote on its version of the budget for fiscal year 1977, which begins Oct. 1.

Differences will be negotiated by a House-Senate conference committee. Then, by the close of business Sept. 15, Congress will give final approval to a budget that sets legally binding limits on total spending, revenues and the deficit for that year.

It will include "assumptions" — not legally binding — on how spending will be broken down among categories such as national defense, agriculture and health.

The House and Senate budget committees have come up with almost the same recommended figures: House: $362.5 billion revenues, $413.2 billion outlays, $50.7 billion deficit. Senate: $362.0 billion revenues, $412.8 billion outlays, $50.8 billion deficit.

Both sets of figures are very close to those Congress set as targets in May, and no major changes are expected to be made in them on the House and Senate floors.

They are about $19 billion higher in spending than the 1977 budget President Ford proposed to Congress in January, and $14 billion higher than Ford's budget proposal as revised at midyear.

They reject $10 billion in new individual and business tax cuts Ford had proposed. The congressional assumptions behind the figures give the President nearly all he requested for defense, more than he asked in jobs, education, health and other domestic programs.

Democratic leaders in Congress claim the congressional budget figures will result in a million more jobs for Americans in 1977 than Ford's budget. Republicans say that is an exaggeration. They contend the congressional budget threatens to ignite inflation, impede economic re-

Utility Is Contradicting
Itself, Hinchey Charges

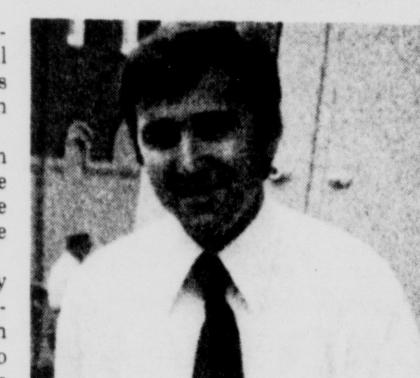

KINGSTON — There is a "discrepancy" in public statements by two Central Hudson officials regarding the company's need for a rate increase, Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey charged today.

Hinchey, among others, has been granted the status of an intervenor at the upcoming PSC hearings on the increase and said he will bring the matter before the commission.

Hinchey quotes a recent statement by Central Hudson's vice president of community affairs, William Kling, in which Kling states, "What Mr. Hinchey fails to comprehend is that Central Hudson is seeking higher rates to cover the cost of facilities already built, not those to be built in the future." This, according to Hinchey, does not square with testimony given July 8 at the PSC hearings by L. Wallace Cross, Central Hudson's vice president and comptroller, when a PSC examiner asked for a summary of the reason's for the company's request for higher prices. Cross replied, "The company presently estimates that it must raise $180 million of new capital during the next five years (1976-1980) in order to finance its construction program."

"The same answer was given in Central Hudson's general letter to all its customers on June 25 announcing the rate increase, signed by the president and chairman of the board: 'In order to construct new facilities and replace old we must obtain additional amounts of capital through the sale of stocks and bonds,'" Hinchey said.

Meanwhile, with the PSC hearing on the increase scheduled to resume next Tuesday, the Assemblyman and at least two Ulster County consumer groups are Maurice Hinchey preparing presentations against the rate increase.

Under the rules governing PSC hearings, Hinchey, the Concerned Consumers and the Irate Consumers have all applied for and received intervenor status. That will permit them to question the Central Hudson representatives who appear. Hinchey and the consumers will reportedly be arguing that at present the utility already has too much idle capacity, which they estimate at between 60 per cent and 70 per cent, and further, that the growth rate of electricity use is considerably less than what Central Hudson estimates.

"We intend to demonstrate that Central Hudson's own figures suggest that no new facilities need be built for at least a decade," said Hinchey.

According to the PSC, Administrative Law Judge Vincent P. Furlong will open the hearing at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 14, in the Dutchess County Office Building, Poughkeepsie.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my darling wife, Anita V. Fichtner, who passed away Sept. 6, 1974. In the graveyard softly sleeping Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one I loved so dearly Whom, alas, I could not save. You bade me here no last farewell, You said goodbye to none, Your weary heart had ceased to beat, Before I knew you'd gone. And when the evening shadows fall, And I am all alone, In my heart there comes a longing. Oh, that you could come back home. You shall never be forgotten. From my memory ne'er shall fade, Sweetest thoughts will always linger. Round the grave where you are laid. Your loving husband, George

MEMORIAM

Beware The Lawn Slither

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI)—Froggy's not gone a'courting this summer, he's been out looking for a watering hole and the sprinkled lawns of the Delmarva Peninsula have been his target.

But slithering behind have come unwanted suitors from the reptile world — Froggy's natural predator, the snake.

"One usually follows the other," said Derby Walker, an agriculture adviser for nearby Sussex County, Del.

"The toads come close to houses because the lawns are irrigated or a hose leaks under the house," he said. "The snakes follow to eat the toads and cool off."

Hognose snakes, which Walker describes as aggressive creatures that coil up and look vicious, are the most frequent lawn visitors.

"They are just generally trying to act like a tough customer," he said. "If that doesn't work, they roll over and play dead."

Other unwanted visitors include the black field vipers, which measure up to three feet in length, and black snakes, which get up to five feet. Walker says all are harmless.

In an effort to combat the pests, residents are buying a record amount of sulfur, a chemical usually applied to control fungus and insects.

Two-Way Squeeze

A family must earn over $12,000 a year today to maintain the same standard of living as a 1970 family making $8,728, according to The Conference Board. The culprits: Inflation and higher income and social security taxes. Rising prices siphoned off $2,628 and additional Federal income and social security taxes, $708.

The Geese and Duck Found True Identity

SOUTH BAY, N.Y. (UPI)—Loren Leggett has three geese and a duck who grew up thinking they were just ugly chickens.

It all began when a goose tired of egg-sitting and one of Leggett's hens adopted the unhatched eggs.

"The hen just sat on them and took over," he said. Later the hen found an abandoned duck egg and sat on that too.

Leggett's daughter, Mrs. Pat Koch, said the mother goose tried to reclaim her family after the eggs hatched but a rooster protected them.

Opponent Gets Polite Answers

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Somewhere in the rules of political warfare it probably says a candidate should know who his opponents are. And if there is such a rule, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., has broken it.

While campaigning through a crowd Monday at the Menger Hotel, Bentsen offered a warm greeting to Pedro Vasquez and at a news conference later answered one of Vasquez's questions.

Vasquez asked Bentsen if he supported deportation of illegal aliens.

"I certainly do," Bentsen replied, adding that he had supported giving additional funds to immigration authorities for controlling the illegal alien situation.

Vasquez is a member of the Socialist Workers Party, opposing deportation, and his name will be listed beside Bentsen's on the November ballot.

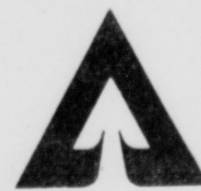

After the news conference Bentsen was surprised when told his political opponent had been there.

Robbery in Shandaken

SHANDAKEN—An armed robbery at a rooming house in Shandaken at 11 p.m. Monday is being investigated by Hurley State Police who are looking for two unknown white men who fled in a dark colored van with white bumper.

Police report that the men, armed with a small calibre pistol, located the victim by calling the rooming house on Route 214 in Chichester. After ascertaining that the victim resided there, they gained admittance to his apartment by claiming to have mutual friends.

After an hour's conversation, one of the men drew the pistol and the victim fled the house. One shot was fired at him, police said.

The assailants also fled the scene in the van.

One was described as about 50 years old, five-foot nine and about 180 pounds. He had short gray hair combed straight back and was wearing a brown bush jacket. He carried the automatic.

The second man was in his early twenties, 135 pounds with short brown hair and a Fu Manchu mustache. He was wearing a dark blue shirt, gray pants and shiny green platform shoes. He carried an orange-brown airline bag.

Eight men, who were playing cards at 12:25 a.m. Sunday in Hensonville, were held up by two stocking-faced men who relieved them of about $1,400 in cash and personal papers including credit cards.

Leeds State Police report that one of the men carried a handgun and the other searched the players, taking money from their pockets and from the card table.

Witnesses were unable to determine the ages of the men. The pair fled the scene. No car was observed.

State Police and Windham Police are investigating.

Victim of Assault

A young woman hitchhiker who was picked up by a man at 2 p.m. Monday on Route 212 in Woodstock, was reportedly raped and assaulted.

Woodstock Police report that the victim was driven to Sickler Road in Willow where the assault took place.

Her assailant is described as a white male, about 30, small with medium-length brown hair, clean shaven and operating a late model white cadillac convertible with New Jersey license plates. Anyone having any information is asked to call Woodstock Police.

Kingston Man Arrested

The arrest of a 42-year-old

Kingston man on a charge of rape brought on complaint of a 15-year-old girl whom he allegedly took to his apartment at 55 Cedar St., has been announced by Police Chief Julius Glasman.

The rape allegedly took place Sept. 1 and Timothy McCleod was arrested the next day after the girl identified his first name.

An investigation conducted by Detectives Joseph Feraca, Michael Jubie and James Riggs resulted in McCleod's being charged with rape in the first degree, endangering the welfare of a minor and unlawfully dealing with a child.

A case of rape was established by Dr. Francis LoGalbo at Kingston Hospital, Feraca said.

McCleod was due for a court appearance today.

Two Juveniles Charged

Kingston City Police arrested two juveniles Monday after an investigation by Officer Charles Polacco revealed that they broke allegedly broke into a van at the rear of Colonial City Carpet Company on North Front Street and took $500 worth of assorted tools and a vacuum cleaner.

It was also determined that one of the juveniles also broke into a car on Fair Street.

Turned over to juvenile authorities, they were charged with burglary in the first degree and grand larceny. An additional charge of petit larceny was lodged against the boy who broke into the car.

Campus Arrests

Highland State Police arrested two men on the campus of State University College at New Paltz at 3:45 a.m. today.

Andrew Grimberg, 18, of Irvington, N. J., was charged with possession of a stolen 1969 Volkswagen, burglar's tools and a hypodermic syringe. He was committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $1,500 bail. Joseph Patrick Merwin, 21, of Brooklyn, was charged with loitering and was sentenced to five days in jail.

More Marijuana

Hurley Police harvested eight marijuana plants on a vacant lot in West Hurley Monday afternoon.

Police will make an arrest when the owner, who resides out of state, returns to his property. He is charged with cultivating marijuana without a license and criminal possession of a dangerous drug in the third degree. He is said to visit Hurley infrequently.

Summer Residents

Five teenagers, who set up housekeeping in an unoccupied summer house in Rhinebeck were arrested Monday afternoon by Rhinebeck State Police, when the owners of the house returned to town.

The youths, all eligible for youthful offender status, were charged with burglary and possession of fireworks.

Third Burglary Suspect

Another arrest was made Monday in the burglary of the Helen M. Sheldon estate property at 194 West Chestnut St., with Kingston city detectives recovering about $5,000 worth of merchandise so far.

A 15-year-old juvenile was taken into custody for allegedly having entered the home twice and having taken an antique sewing machine, a silver coffee pot and a silver tray. He was released in his mother's custody.

On Sept. 2, Mark Anderson, 17, and his mother, Mrs. Ruth Abernethy of 24 O'Neil St., were arrested in connection with the Sheldon burglaries. Anderson was charged with burglary in the third degree and grand larceny. Mrs. Abernethy was charged with criminal possession of stolen property in the first degree.

The burglaries are alleged to have taken place in early August. A caretaker has been on the premises ever since.

Forced Entry

Hurley State Police arrested a 17-year-old youth and charged him with burglary in the second degree and criminal mischief.

He is alleged to have forced his way into a residence at Spring Lake Trailer Park.

Found inside, he was arraigned before Hurley Justice C. H. Dumond and committed to Ulster County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail.

He is scheduled for reappearance in court Sept. 21.

Recycling Burglary

Kingston Police Department reported a burglary over the weekend at Kingston Recycling Depot, 642 Abeel St., where a calculator and a battery charger valued at $275 was taken. Entry was gained through a front door.

Escapee Captured

An escapee from Eastern Correctional Facility in Napanoch, was captured Monday afternoon in Elmont, L. I. during an alleged burglary. Nassau County police are awaiting arrival today of a warrant charging Arthur Walters, 22, with escape.

Prison officials report

Walters walked away from the prison farm detail early Monday morning.

New York State Troopers report he has been serving a sentence for burglary.

Dutchess County Fatal

A Wingdale woman died Sunday night in a three-car accident after which, Dutchess County Sheriff Department deputies ticketed two drivers for driving while intoxicated.

Frances White, 48, was pronounced dead on arrival at Vassar Brothers Hospital, Poughkeepsie from massive internal injuries.

Listed in critical condition in the hospital's intensive care unit was the driver of the car in which Mrs. White was a passenger, Raymond Jordan, 48, of Pawling.

Deputies said the accident occurred about five miles east of the city on Route 55. They report that Martin Walsh, 49, of Hopewell Junction allegedly crossed the center line of Route 55, smashing into Jordan's car and a vehicle driven by Mary Delahoyd, 32, of Bronxville, who was treated for minor injuries.

Guns Stolen

Guns and other items estimated at $4,000 were reported stolen from the home of James Ashdown on Route 213 in Rifton Saturday night.

BCI Investigator Robert Gardner of the Highland Barracks, is investigating the entry which was gained through a cellar window.

Youth Critical

A 11-year-old Accord youth is in critical condition at Horton Memorial Hospital today after his bicycle ran into a van at the intersection of the Lower Whitfield Road and Samsonville Road at 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Frank Monte and Joshua Levine, 12, were reportedly riding their bicycles on the Lower Whitfield Road at the time of the accident. The van was driven by Arnold Marko of Kerhonkson. Marko's daughter, Monica and Michael DeWitt, 11, were passengers in the van.

Cause of Death

The cause of death in the case of the Jamaica, Queens boy who was killed in a minibi accident Sunday afternoon in Saugerties, was attributed to his hitting a cable across the road on which he was riding and his being crushed by the minibi as he sought to avoid the cable.

The Kids on Ulster Street Have Built Themselves a House

Doug and Frank Balcom, Fred Rogers and Charles Cecelia, lounging

KINGSTON—The kids on Ulster Street are putting the finishing touches on an unusual remarkable display of creativity and engineering skill a three-story house they have constructed from discarded boards, beams and trees. The paint is still wet on the third floor, and a big piece of carpet is drying in the sun which they are going to put in the top story.

The chief carpenter and engineer is Frank Balcom, 15, of 23 Ulster Street. Frank says the construction, which began last February, has proceeded one story at a time. The structure is very sturdy, braced with two by fours and two by sixes. It is around 15 feet tall, 4 feet wide, and 6 feet long - exactly kid-sized.

Frank did most of the construction himself, but says he was assisted by his brother Doug, 11, Fred Rogers, 12, and Chuckie Cecelia, 11. The house sleeps six (two to a floor) and the boys say they camp out in it overnight.

The boys have also constructed a barbecue near the house where they cook hotdogs and sit in custom made chairs, fashioned from tree stumps, boards, and foam rubber. A five foot flag pole is awaiting an American flag.

"It lasted through the hurricane," says Frank, "so I guess it's pretty strong." The house, however, faces another hazard more indomitable than Hurricane Belle - it just may be in the way of the proposed Kingston arterial.

Doug Balcom, on the third floor, looks to see who's on the second.

Charles Cecelia is having a bit of trouble with an unhinged door.

Sex Ed Usurps Parent Rights

Dear Editor:

Many parents may not be aware that "how-to-do-it" sex education in the schools is not mandatory. The New York State Education Law 787 was amended so that Strand III (Mental Health: Personality Development, Sexuality and Family Life) was deleted from the law.

Sex education is given in kindergarten through 12th grade without any morals or absolutes. If you object to this usurpation of parental responsibility and do not wish sex ed taught without regard to your moral values, you may have your child excused from health classes during the six weeks in which sex ed is given.

In fact, in the words of Mrs. Mellon of PONY-U, Buffalo, N.Y., you may advise your school district that your children are not "allowed to participate in or be subject to instruction in any training or education in sex and/or sexual attitudes, human and animal reproductive biological development, attitudes development, self-understanding, personal and family emotional development, introspective examination of social and cultural aspects of family life, or group therapy or self-criticism, or any combination or degree thereof. ... The prohibition asserted hereby includes but is not limited to, any exposure to the above kinds of education or training, whether by visual or audible communication, and whether or not by group therapy or activity, television, radio, slides, moving pictures, books, magazines, or any other form of communication."

Walkers Protest Our Priorities

Dear Editor:

The Continental Walkers are passing through the Mid-Hudson Valley on their way to Washington, D.C. For part of their walk they will be joined by people from Greene County, Ulster County, and Columbia County. During their long trek for peace, which began in San Francisco in January, they have been speaking to groups along the route asking for social justice and disarmament. To put into perspective their views, the following are a few of the news items of the recent past:

- Agriculture Sect'y Butz wants to cut food stamp program to eliminate abuses.
- U.S. consumer groups have to take Agriculture Dept. to court to stop them from grinding bones into hot-dogs.
- U.S. and Britain may form bank to buy land from white Rhodesians to encourage the ruling minority to remain in Rhodesia.
- Rhodesian chrome is what "makes modern defense tick."
- General Accounting Office blasts Navy for hampering its investigation of $16 billion Trident submarine program.
- Rickover warns of a ship "ripoff".
- Peaceful protestors at Seabrook, N.H. charged with criminal trespass and bail set at $5000.
- Trucking officials accused of $12.3 million tax evasion, released on $5000 bail.
- Congressional investigators find F.D.A. lax in testing new drugs.
- Congress underwrites insurance for the swine flu program the insurance companies are unwilling to bet on.
- Pentagon official - reprimanded for accepting defense contractor hospitality - gets Pentagon post for procurement and development of new weapons.
- Vietnam vet - paralyzed from waist down - writes book describing how he is dragged from wheel chair and arrested while demonstrating for unconditional amnesty.

- Pentagon requests $4.7 million to plan evacuation of American cities in case of nuclear war.
 - Pentagon completes $15.4 million "war room".
 - F.B.I. Director issues Bicentennial nation-wide Fourth of July alert on American Indians.
 - U.S.'s second largest killer, cancer, receives $800,000. research budget annually.
 - Pentagon gasoline budget receives $3,000,000 annually.
 - Pentagon gasoline U.S. Federal Government plans 1000 nuclear reactors by year 2000.
 - Congressmen raise concern over "counterforce", a nuclear blitz attack by Russia.
 - Senate Committee on Aging shocked by Medicaid fraud by health providers.

Dedication to Profit

By RALPH INGERSOLL

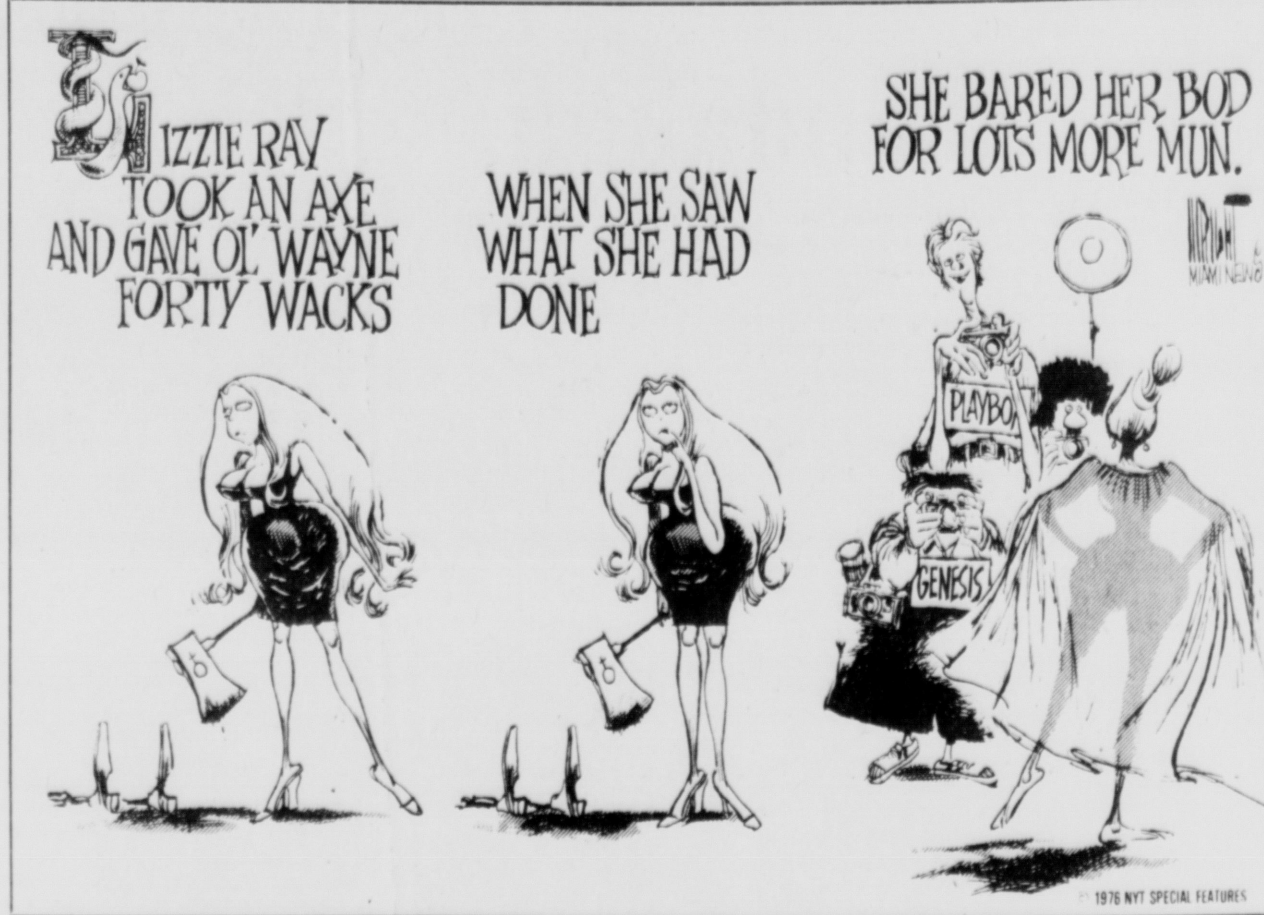

Barry Commoner is one of our most articulate scientists, and I commend to your attention his last - and most comprehensive - book on Energy and the Economic Crises. It is called THE POVERTY OF POWER, although it is actually about the wealth of same and how it is being wasted. Most of it appeared in articles in The New Yorker, but the case is better put in his single volume.

Commoner starts it off with an explanation of the laws of thermodynamics which is so clear that even I can understand it, even over 50 years since I was, early on, an engineering student. Thermodynamics is the study of the phenomenon of energy itself and I agree with Commoner that it is a proper place to start in analyzing the energy crunch we are in.

THE POVERTY OF POWER (the house of Knopf has just published it) is not a book to be downgraded by summarization. It is serious reading, through which Commoner skillfully decoys the layman with homely similes into serious thinking. Its documentation of the ways in which we waste the energy which the sun alone has bestowed on us - and is still pouring our way - is impressive. I do not see how any sensible person can argue successfully against it. But I do see one emphasized aspect that needs even broader consideration.

Commoner treats a dedication to "maximization of profits" as a built-in, irreversible flaw in a purely capitalistic society. I see it as a basic flaw in the nature of human beings, as lethal in communist societies as in ours. Communist dictatorship's super-monopoly establishments are basically as dedicated to profit for themselves as are the aggregations of capital in our country which have so abused the privileges they monopolized. At least in our form of capitalism there are a) some capitalists wise enough to see that, it they seriously abuse the society that created them, they are only destroying their own foundation and b) our form of government has built into itself the mechanisms to check abuses of power in its midst, even if - as it is now - it is letting too many of them decay for lack of leadership.

I should hasten to say that Commoner is not - repeat, not-an advocate of Communism. He has certainly demonstrated the obvious: that the use/waste of the sun's energy stored in fuels or still being poured on us across space is a political problem. It has to do with how mankind chooses to live with itself. His answer (to me) is not quite as thoroughly thought out as his scientist's case for our misusing our resources. It is a call for a new and better system than either Western Capitalism or the Russian's corruption of Marx's idealism. He sees the first step to be the articulation of the problem - and then our need to debate it. But he slips a little too lightly - for me, again over the problem of disseminating the truths that add up to the problem: i.e. the education of the peoples of the world who do not yet see what is so obvious to him and to most other thinking humans.

GOP Revival Invigorating

There is something of a revival of Republican morale in the air, and it is altogether bracing. It demonstrates, moreover, the volatility of the polls. Only yesterday - specifically, on July 30 - Kevin Phillips, the political demographer, who never quite understands it when history fails to slide down the bannister he has prepared for it, was telling us that the Reagan campaign for the Presidency was a huge flop - because Reagan talked about the themes Reagan thought the American people should be concerned about, rather than the themes Phillips thought the American people should be concerned about. Whence the fiasco, said Phillips - "A simple yardstick will suffice," he wrote in his column. "Late this winter, Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter were virtually neck and neck in Gallup Polls. Now Reagan trails 64 to 23 per cent."

That's right, and late in August Gerry Ford having adopted the Reagan line and become the beneficiary of the Reagan votes, Carter's edge over Ford is down to nine points. When you meditate on the difference in the registration of the two parties - 13 per cent for the Republicans, over twice that for the Democrats - the figures suggest that the Republican Party has done a much better job of fielding someone with a platform appealing to non-Republicans than the Democrats have done in fielding a candidate appealing to non-Democrats. Really, if I were a Democrat, enjoying the huge advantage I enjoyed over the Republicans in registration figures, I'd feel terribly...mortified...whenever the differential in the Gallup Poll is less than the differential in the registration figures.

Several factors are at work, two of them personal, one political. Gerry Ford appears to have been transformed by the experience at Kansas City. Granted, four weeks is a long time to prepare one's speech, but taking time out only for an occasional veto, or a telephone call to an uncommitted delegate, it is hard to know how he could have spent the time more profitably either for himself, or for the country. He succeeded, with plain but heroic prose, in dissipating some of the hallucinations so painstakingly constructed by Jimmy Carter and the party of everything for everybody paid for by nobody. By the time he was through, it was as if Joe Palooka had knocked out a threatening giant. It wasn't a knockout, as we know; but it was Round I, and the reversal in the spread in the polls is as dramatic as anything we have seen in recent American history. A 30 point spread reduced to a nine point spread.

Then, too, there is something to be got out of the great dialectic about American intelligence, the polarities of which are Henry Mencken's statement that you can "never underestimate the stupidity of the American voter," and Franklin P. Adams' that the "average American is a little bit above average."

There are great stretches of time when it appears that the duel is won by Mencken. But Adams is never quite out, and recently he appears to be rising again. The American people are proving capable of awakening from the daze of Carter. And if ever the shroud of mystery that surrounds him is penetrated, one cannot venture to say what would happen - what happened to George McGovern?

They are both nice, good, intelligent men: but they appear to be addicts of the most insidious delusion of the century, namely that the state can do it better, and that a republic can remain free by subjugating its people. These junkies control the language of reality, and have done so for years. They have, in the phrase used by Henry Kissinger in another connection, "preempted the categories." So that they get away with statements like "free health" and "free education," which is like talking about square triangles, or rectangular circles.

We are a long way from a general penetration of these superstitions, which may or may not come before the cure for cancer is discovered: but this week, anyway, Gallup brought glad tidings.

Art Buchwald

Who's Got The Button Today?

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as president Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

One of the things everyone has to worry about these days is the danger of an accidental war being set off with nuclear weapons. The best-selling book "Fail-Safe," by Eugene Burdick and Harvey Wheeler, deals with this problem when a group of American bombers have gone past the fail-safe point and, because of some foul-up in a little black box, the bombers have not gotten the word to come back. They are scheduled to blow up Moscow. To show the Russians it's all an accident, the President of the United States blows up New York, even though his wife is there on a shopping trip.

But there is another school in Washington that insists there are so many safeguards on atomic weapons that even if someone wanted to fire one he wouldn't be able to do it.

Here is how this school sees it. In order to start a war, someone will have to push a button. To safeguard that no one will push the button accidentally, it is hidden every week in a different spot.

Only two people, both low-ranking military officers from different branches of the armed services, know the location of the button—but they don't know each other. Each has the authority to push the button when ordered to do so from higher up. But if both their thumbs are not on the button at the same time, it will not work.

Now let us suppose, by some stretch of the imagination, both men accidentally meet at the same location at the same time and both decide to push the button at the same time. This does not automatically start World War III. When the button is pushed, all it does is turn on a green light in the bombproof, radiation-shielded, underground shelter in a secret place near Cheyenne, Wyo.

The shelter is manned by an enlisted WAC and an enlisted WAVE, each of whom has a key to a white princess telephone. As soon as they see the green light, they dial a secret number in South Dakota and say, "Condition Green."

This information is passed on to the quartermaster of the base, who immediately tries to contact Washington. But since he doesn't have the area code number for Washington, he can't dial directly. So he sends the message by carrier pigeon. This is known as a "Condition Red."

As soon as the pigeon arrives in Washington, the secretary of defense is notified, and he in turn informs the President.

But the President cannot give the signal to do anything without turning a switch and there are seven locks on the switch. Each member of the President's family has a key to one of the locks and the switch cannot be pulled unless all the locks are opened at the same time. Since the family is never in Washington all at the same time, it is virtually impossible for the President to pull the switch.

Therefore, the chances of an accidental or even an intentional war are remote and shouldn't give anyone any sleepless nights. If it weren't for all these safeguards, I'd be worried too.

Jack Anderson

Was JFK Killed by The Mob?

WASHINGTON — Mafia mobster John Roselli may have taken the secret of the John F. Kennedy assassination with him to his death. He was brutally murdered a few weeks ago, his hacked-up body stuffed into an oil drum and dumped into Miami's Biscayne Bay.

Before he died, Roselli hinted to associates that he knew who had arranged President Kennedy's murder. It was the same conspirators, he suggested, whom he had recruited earlier to kill Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

By Roselli's cryptic account, Castro learned the identity of the underworld contacts in Havana who had been trying to knock him off. He believed, not altogether without basis, that President Kennedy was behind the plot.

The Cuban leader, as the supreme irony, decided to turn the tables and use the same crowd to arrange Kennedy's assassination, according to Roselli's scenario. To save their skins, the plotters lined up Lee Harvey Oswald to pull the trigger.

Roselli could never be pinned down on names or details. It was also difficult to assess whether he knew what he was talking about or whether he merely described what he thought might have happened. Certainly there is no real evidence to support Roselli's story. But there are enough curious circumstances to justify telling it.

Here are the fascinating highlights. The ruggedly handsome Roselli, a flamboyant mobster with underworld contacts in Havana, was recruited by the Central Intelligence Agency in 1960 to assassinate Castro. He had no authority, however, over the underworld elements in Havana.

They were under the loose control of Florida's Mafia chieftain, Santos Trafficante. His gambling enterprises in Havana had been closed down by Castro after the 1959 revolution. In fact, Trafficante had been lodged for a period in a Cuban jail, an indignity that didn't endear Castro to him.

After Trafficante made it back to his Florida haunts, he left part of his organization behind in Havana. Some of his henchmen even managed to develop contacts in Castro's inner circle. These were the people Roselli wanted to use to knock off Castro. But Roselli didn't have the stature inside the Mafia to make the necessary arrangements with Trafficante.

So Roselli called in his patron, the Chicago godfather Sam "Momo" Giancana, to deal with Trafficante.

As Roselli's associates tell it, he persuaded Giancana that it would be to their advantage to win the good will of the CIA. Convinced, Giancana flew down to Florida to make the preliminary arrangements.

He was in the middle of these delicate dealings, incidentally, when he learned that his favorite girl friend, singer Phyllis McGuire, had developed a romantic attachment in Las Vegas to comedian Dan Rowan. Enraged, Giancana wanted to fly straight to Las Vegas and end the romance.

But Robert Maheu, who had recruited Roselli for the CIA, talked Giancana out of it by offering to bug Rowan's hotel room and promising the angry mobster a full report.

Once Giancana and Trafficante set it up, Roselli used the Havana underworld to plot Castro's demise. At first, they tried to plant poison pills, supplied by the CIA, in Castro's food. The pills would have made it appear that he died of natural causes. When this failed, snipers were dispatched to a Havana rooftop. They were caught.

The word reached Roselli that some of the plotters had been tortured and that Castro had learned about the whole operation.

The CIA called off the Roselli operation in March, 1963, but recruited a Castro associate named Rolando Cubela to murder Castro.

In an impromptu, three-hour interview with Associated Press reporter Daniel Harker, Castro indicated that he knew about the attempts on his life and warned that U.S. leaders also might not be safe. That was September 7, 1963.

According to Roselli, Castro enlisted the same underworld elements whom he had caught plotting against him. They supposedly were Cubans from the old Trafficante organization. Working with Cuban intelligence, they allegedly lined up an ex-Marine sharpshooter named Lee Harvey Oswald, who had been active in the pro-Castro movement.

According to Roselli's version, Oswald may have shot Kennedy or may have acted as a decoy while others ambushed him from closer range. When Oswald was picked up, Roselli suggested, the underworld conspirators feared he would crack and disclose information that might lead to them. This almost certainly would have brought a massive U.S. crackdown on the Mafia.

So Jack Ruby was ordered to eliminate Oswald, making it appear as an act of reprisal against the President's killer. At least this is how Roselli explained the tragedy in Dallas.

There is no proof, of course. But there is some corroborative, circumstantial evidence. It has been established, for example, that Oswald visited the Cuban consulate in Mico City two months before the dreadful day in Dallas. An informant named Sylva Duran first stated, then denied, that she had overheard the Cubans speak to Oswald about assassinating someone and had seen them slip him some money.

Footnote: As to the Giancana episode, Maheu refused comment. A spokesman for Rowan said he and Miss McGuire were "just old friends. There was no hot romance." Miss McGuire could not be reached.

FINAL STRETCH

State Senate Hopefuls Hit Beaches, Fairs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The five Democratic Senate contenders headed their campaigns into the final stretch today, with only a week remaining before the Sept. 14 primary.

The candidates spent Labor Day stumping the beaches, at fairs and parades and giving speeches.

Daniel Patrick Moynihan told a lunchtime Labor Day crowd in Herald Square it would be a mistake for Jimmy Carter to focus his efforts on the fight against inflation while ignoring welfare reform.

"If we care about the communities of America, if we care about our families ... then welfare reform must be our first priority," Moynihan said.

The former U.N. ambassador, accompanied by his 19-year-old daughter, Maura, went on from there to Brooklyn and the Brighton Beach Baths and the Deauville Cabana Club.

Most of the beachgoers mobbed Moynihan, but some were put off by the intrusion of politics on their holiday.

"You're blocking my sun," said Jerry Flick of Brooklyn when the Moynihan entourage passed his chaise longue at the Brighton Beach Baths. "Let's go, I'm trying to enjoy the sun."

Moynihan was accompanied by four policemen to guard against repetition of the incident Sunday in which a "Yippie" hit him in the face with a custard pie.

Businessman Abraham Hirschfeld took on the oil companies, saying they should be required to pool their petroleum supplies in a general commodities market and then buy them back competitively so as to reduce the price of fuel.

Standing at a Gulf Station on the corner of Second Avenue and 63rd Street, Hirschfeld said his proposal could reduce gasoline prices by as much as 15 cents a gallon, utility bills by 20 per cent and the cost of home heating oil by 30 per cent.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-Manhattan, urged New York State "to take the lead in becoming the solar energy equipment capital of the nation" as means of reducing U.S. dependence on imported foreign oil and creating new jobs in the state.

The congresswoman picked up the endorsement of 82 Jewish leaders and radio station WJLB-FM.

Ramsey Clark said the proposed Kennedy-Levi bill, which would restrict the use of domestic wiretaps, is an inadequate measure that would "open up wiretapping to new abuses."

City Council President Paul O'Dwyer charged the nation's elderly are suffering under Republican policies that are "hopelessly fettered by inadequate programming and levels of subsidy, as well as by tragically unconscionable profiteering."

O'Dwyer called for a federally guaranteed income with a provision for increases in the cost of living; passage of Kennedy-Corman health bill and federal expansion of hot-meal programs for the aged.

Rep. Peter Peyser, R-Westchester, who opposes Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., in the GOP primary, charged that Carter exerted pressure to kill legislation reducing federal peanut subsidies.

"How can Governor Carter explain his call for the dismantling of outdated bureaucratic programs while at the same time he profits from the abuses of this one?" Peyser asked. Carter, former governor of Georgia, who is also a peanut farmer.

Buckley issued a Labor day statement criticizing the "economic irresponsibility" of the Democratic-controlled Congress and called for a "real jobs bill."

He proposed tax reforms and a "youth differential" in the Minimum Wage Law which would allow the young, unskilled persons to work for less than the minimum wage while they are learning trades.

Buckley received the endorsements of Assemblyman Guy Molinari and State Sen. John Marchi, both Staten Island Republicans.

Dem Contenders Urge Vote Fraud Watch

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two Democratic congressional contenders in the South Bronx and the county Republican chairman are asking for U.S. marshals to watch the polls in the 21st Congressional District next Tuesday because of potential vote fraud.

Rep. Herman Badillo, D-Bronx, and State Sen. John Calandra, the GOP chairman, in a rare team-up, said Monday they have sent a letter to Attorney General Edward Levi asking for the marshals because they have documented 175 cases of potential vote fraud in the district.

Their request for marshals, announced at a news conference on the steps of City Hall, was endorsed by City Councilman Ramon Velez, Badillo's opponent in the primary race.

In the letter, the two legislators enclosed a list of names they said were gathered in one afternoon in the Bronx in which there appeared to be the possibility of fraud. Velez disagreed with that aspect of the request, saying the list was a "fabrication."

Badillo and Calandra said the 175 names on their list are those of registrants or voters who listed abandoned buildings as their places of residence.

"We must make the most extensive preparations to prevent these ineligible voters from casting ballots while assuring that those who are entitled have the free opportunity to vote ...," the legislators wrote Levi.

"Federal marshals will not only serve the purpose of seeing that the election is conducted fairly, but will also act as a deterrent for some people against even trying to abuse the procedure."

Badillo, a Democrat who is ready to have Republican backing in his district, is locked in a bitter primary race for the Democratic designation with Velez. Calandra is chairman of the state Senate Conservative Elections.

Coin Flip Record

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — Gary Grear has laid claim to the world record for coin snatching by flipping 42 coins off the back of his arm simultaneously and then catching them with the same hand.

Grear's Labor Day feat surpassed the old Guinness World Book of Records mark set by an Englishman who coin-snatched 39 British pennies.

Grear, 30, flipped and caught 42 half dollars to set his record in Roanoke.

He said he actually stacked 43 half dollars on his arm for the feat — because the bottom coin always sticks to his skin.

Carter Revs Up Campaign While Ford Watches, Waits

(By UPI)

Jimmy Carter, a clear favorite to reclaim the presidency for the Democrats, began his campaign by drawing on memories of John Kennedy and Franklin Roosevelt. President Ford, a decided underdog, watched and waited from the White House.

While Carter revved up his campaign from weeks of summer inactivity in a Labor Day swing through his native South on up the Eastern Seaboard, Ford dealt with matters of state, projecting the image his advisers insist will help him stay in office.

Carter's remarks came at Warm Springs, Ga. — the Little White House of FDR and a campaign stop of Kennedy's in 1960. "If elected," Carter declared, "I'll try to be a worthy leader of our great country."

Carter, who campaigns today in New York, Philadelphia and Groton, Conn., spoke to several thousand persons Monday in stops at Warm Springs, the Southern 500 stock car race in Darlington, S.C., and Norfolk, Va.

Ford, waiting until next week for the "official" start of his election effort, stayed in the White House and studied the Vietnamese decision to release a list of American soldiers missing in action from the war and the new Korean front developments.

President Ford's advisers believe Carter's inexperience in foreign policy matters may be a weak spot and are counseling Ford to project a presidential image to counter an expected partisan posture of his Democratic challenger.

"I don't owe special interests anything," Carter said at

For Amy, a Yawn

Amy Carter, daughter of Democratic presidential nominee Jimmy Carter yawns with a ho hum attitude while she leans against her mother, Rosalynn, in the early morning hours on the steps of Franklin D. Roosevelt's home, the Little White House, in Warm Springs, Ga. Amy's dad gave a speech officially opening his campaign for the presidency.

Warm Springs. "I owe the people of this country everything."

In New York today, Carter discussed his policies for urban areas.

He criticized corruption in urban programs and blamed it for a decline in the number of American families who can own their homes from more than 50 to 32 per cent in the last eight years.

"If we are to save our cities we must revitalize our neighborhoods first," Carter said.

"If we are to save our country, we must give our families and neighborhoods a chance. If I am elected, that is what we will do."

Carter briefly shared the stage with GOP vice presidential candidate Robert Dole, who met him at the stock car race in Darlington. A Carter aide called the Dole appearance "gross bad manners," but Carter said he wasn't disturbed.

Dole released a financial statement showing assets totaling $257,395. Dole's wife of less than one year, Liddy, reported assets worth $590,674.

LaValle Will Seek Post

WOODSTOCK — Citing his active participation and involvement in local affairs, John LaValle has announced he will seek the Democratic nomination for Woodstock Town Councilman this year.

A 10-year Navy veteran, he resides with his wife, Annette, and their two sons, on Rock City Road in the village.

In campaigning for councilman, he said, he will "openly discuss" problems which he considers "major local issues," among them welfare reform, sewage disposal, real property assessment systems and growth and environmental matters.

LaValle's announcement insures at least a two-way run for the town board seat in the Democratic caucus.

Steve Shearer had already made known his intention to seek the party's endorsement.

The councilman position, a one year, unexpired term only, is now held by Republican Charles Denton, who was appointed by the board last year to fill a vacancy. Denton was recently nominated as the GOP candidate at the Republican caucus.

The Democratic caucus is slated for Wednesday, Sept. 8, at 8 p.m. and Woodstock Town Hall. All registered Woodstock Democrats are eligible to vote and to make further nominations from the floor.

now serving a temporary appointment to the post as a replacement for the late Herbert Dixon.

Kingston Town Dem Caucus Set

TOWN OF KINGSTON — James Barton, Democratic chairman for the Town of Kingston, announces that the Democratic caucus will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 11, at 11 Rymrock Road.

All registered Democrats in the Town of Kingston are welcome to the caucus, which will select a candidate for highway superintendent. John Young is

Marta Casals Istomin

Casal's Widow Deeply Dedicated

"My fulfillment comes from being supportive rather than being an achiever."

By MARIAN CHRISTY

NEW YORK — Puerto Rican beauty Marta Casals Istomin, widow of master cellist Pablo Casals, is reminiscing about the man she married when she was 22 and he was 82. "Now when I see aged people, I say to myself: Oh, my God, Casals was of that age. But he wasn't that age. Not really."

It's an open secret that Marta, an excellent cellist in her own right and once Casals' star pupil, worshipped him from the time she was 18 when they met at a music festival in Prades, France.

"Casals," as she calls him, "was ageless. He had the charisma of a young outlook coupled with genuine wisdom born of maturity. It was one of the dimensions that made him extraordinary. Everybody who knew him fell in love with him. I happened to be one of those people. I know our marriage surprised a lot of people."

Diminutive Marta, now a 39-year-old elegant with a shock of black hair and brown eyes that smile, last year married Casals' best friend, concert pianist Eugene Istomin, 49, a child prodigy who had never been married before. "I'm a middle-aged Romeo," says Istomin.

Casals and Istomin knew each other for 25 years. In fact, "my son" was how Casals always referred to Istomin. "They had a profound love for each other," says Marta about the two men in her life.

About being Istomin's glowing bride and moving into the Manhattan penthouse that once belonged to designer Jerry Silverman: "Istomin is my contemporary," says Marta. "It's possible to do things that could not be expected of Casals. Our life is much more active. For example, Eugene and I are able to take great, long walks together."

When Casals died in October of 1973, he was 97.

"I was totally shattered by his death although I knew the years were against him. When he died, I was convinced I would never find anyone else. After all, I had lived with one of the world's greatest musicians. I looked upon that experience as incomparable. I thought no one could possibly measure up."

After Casals, on self-imposed exile from his native Spain, was buried in a San Juan churchyard, Marta, who wore black mourning clothes for one year, struggled to come to grips with the reality of widowhood.

"I was emotionally devastated," she says. "I had many friends but I had never felt so completely alone. There was a deep emptiness that cannot be explained in words. At first, the people in our closest circle of friends called regularly. Then, as the year wore on, there were long lapses between the calls."

Apparently Istomin, whom Marta describes as a "likeable" man, was unwaveringly solicitous.

"He was uncompromising about my sense of well being," says Marta. That, she says, and a common love for Casals eventually brought them together.

"Slowly, slowly that closeness began to transfer itself to me," she continues about the second chapter of her love story.

"Suddenly I realized that something had happened. I had, indeed, fallen in love. The spark was ignited again."

"I am a person of total dedication," she says. "I was totally dedicated to Casals. Now I'm totally dedicated to Istomin. Nothing is more important than the complete focus on the man in my life. My own achievements must take second place."

Marta claims she is a liberated woman who has defined her objectives freely. "My fulfillment comes from being supportive rather than being an achiever," she says. "Some women need to excel professionally. I need to excel as a woman."

She says she has found the formula of bliss with both men. "What love breaks down to," she says, "is a deep, intractable affection that encompasses and permeates everything. You have to have understanding and respect. There must be communion of ideals and goals. These add up to the ultimate joy of a happy union."

Upcoming Rehearsal Marks Beginning Of Mendelssohn Club's 74th Season

KINGSTON—Mendelssohn Club of Kingston holds its first rehearsal for the fall concert series Monday, Sept. 13, at St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Ave. The rehearsal signals the beginning of the 74th season for the glee club.

After 10 weekly rehearsals the club will begin a series of concerts in and around the Kingston area, concluding with the annual Fall Music Festival. This festival provides recognition for outstanding young artists of the area who perform as guest soloists with the glee club.

The Mendelssohn Club, traditionally an all-male chorus, broke its 73-year old tradition last spring by enlisting more than 100 women for a special Bicentennial program of music for mixed voices. A repeat of the mixed choir with a different type of music is being considered for next spring in honor of Kingston's own Bicentennial.

"Singing with the Mendelssohn Club, as with any good choral group, can be a very rewarding experience," says William Lanier, president. "The fellowship and camaraderie, the

pure joy of making music, of blending voices to convey a great variety of moods and emotions—all provide a relaxing change of pace from hectic day-to-day affairs."

Besides all that, "Lanier notes, "singing is great exercise! Many of the same muscles used in jogging and swimming get a good workout during those weekly rehearsal sessions....above all else, the ability to sing is a God-given gift and, as such, one to be shared. An active choral group provides that opportunity." The fall program consists of spirituals, folk songs, sea chanteys, hymns, Christmas carols, show tunes and novelties.

Any male singer with college glee club, high school or church choir experience is welcome. Registration is between 7:30 and 8 p.m. next Monday night. Information regarding membership may be obtained from Lanier or by writing to the Mendelssohn Club, CPO Box 172, Kingston.

Quilting Class to Start

KINGSTON—Britts will offer two classes in beginning quilting, Tuesday, Sept. 14, from 10 a.m. to noon and Friday, Sept. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m.

All aspects of quilting will be taught from stitching, estimating yardage, diagramming quilts, drafting templates, piecing, applique, crazy quilt techniques, setting the quilt top and finishing a quilt. Although plans for a quilt are the ultimate goal of the course, a varied number of projects will be offered to be completed in time for Christmas gift giving.

Quilting is a new experience for many women in the area and most of them express surprise and delight in the new friendships formed and the spirit of "community" that develops.

Mrs. Ruth Culver, who was coordinator for the Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt, will again be instructor for this course. For a week in August, Mrs. Culver attended the Finger Lakes Bicentennial Quilt exhibit at Ithaca, which included lectures and workshops given by Beth and Jeffery Gutcheon, authors of "The Perfect Patchwork Primer" and Jean Ray Laury, who has designed many quilts for Family Circle Magazine and is author of "Quilts and Coverlets."

Students should bring scissors, sewing equipment, pencil, ruler, medium weight sandpaper and small pieces of material to the first class.

Indonesia's Delegate to UN Will Speak Here at BPW Meeting

KINGSTON—Indonesia's delegate to the United Nations Social Development Division, Mrs. T. Memet Tanumidjaja, will be the guest speaker for the opening dinner-meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Tuesday, Sept. 14, in The Colonnade Restaurant. Mrs. Memet will be coming to the local meeting from a conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

A multi-talented person who holds an eminent position in UNICEF, she has had a long and successful career. In her sphere of activities, she has been a teacher, professional social worker, deputy minister and special adviser to the Ministry of Social Affairs in Indonesia. She has served as a member of Parliament in Indonesia representing women as a functional group.

The guest speaker will discuss her role at the UN as well as her views on how American women can contribute their valuable expertise toward equality, development and peace on which the General Assembly has placed special emphasis during the International Women's Decade, 1975-1985. She believes women should live lives of true equality with men but she does not advocate a reversal of the roles of men and women nor an abandonment of the traditional roles of women.

Members are asked to invite guests to this meeting. Interested persons in the community who wish to attend should contact any member of the committee: Ruth Kuriger, 8 Alcazar Ave., Collette Sonnenberg, 75 Miller's Lane, Mela Carmody, Grand Street and Justine Englander, 68 Plymouth Ave., Kingston; Dorothy A. Narel, Mosher Place, Lorraine Shultis, John Street, West Hurley.

There will be limited seating. The evening is not limited to women only. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad Holds Surprise Mock Disaster

KERHONKSON—Emergency Care Services, nationally, statewide and locally, are placing more and more emphasis on teamwork by and between all services connected with emergency situations. To this end, the Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad ran a totally "surprise" mock disaster recently in the parking lot next to the squad building.

This was to have been a regularly scheduled training meeting for all squad members. But, with the aid of seven members of the squad-sponsored Explorer Post No. 122, a mock disaster was dispatched at 7:12 — approximately 20 minutes prior to the regular meeting time — with the first response to the scene at 7:16. Working with a committee of three, Lee Previll had managed to organize the event without a leak to the membership.

An accident scene with a wrecked car involving seven

"victims" was created before the call was dispatched. Traffic to the scene was controlled by Larry VanGasbeck. This kept lanes open to the area for ambulances. As personnel arrived, Gary Miller and Ms. Previll showed the ambulance crews where victims were located. Doris Robbins was in charge of the make-up of victims using Simulads, representing the different kinds of wounds, plenty of blood, torn clothing, state of shock and other conditions always present at the scene of violent traffic accidents.

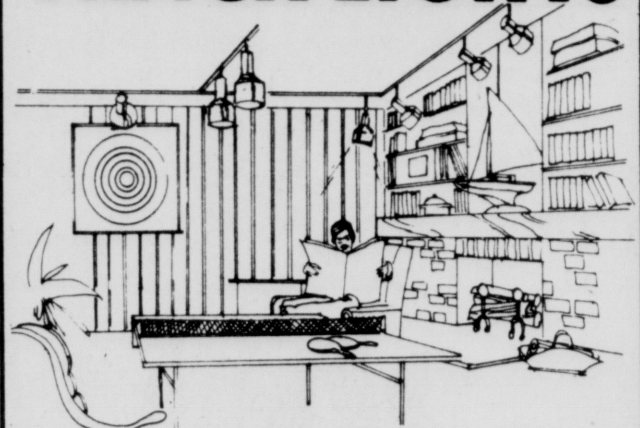

Critics were on the spot to check on the first aid given, transportation of victims and the Emergency Room area of the hospital which was located inside the building. Critics at the scene were Joe Dunleavy and Augusta Kopp. Esther Yeager made a general survey of the scene, gave instructions to arriving personnel as to the location of additional supplies and then joined Miller, Robbins and Previll at the Emergency Room as critics on the condition of victims as they arrived at the hospital.

CLOSED MONDAYS

As part of the Cooperative Education Program at Ulster County Community College, seven students in the Medical Laboratory Technology Program have been working this summer at the Kingston City Laboratory. Peter Sanborn of Kingston is shown working with Kingston Lab Technician, Dawn McLean. Dr. Walter Bernstein, director of the co-op program at the college, reports that the "lab has done an extraordinary job in supporting the educational goals of the MLT program."

Political Picnics Planned

KINGSTON—Several political clubs of the area have planned picnics and barbecues for the coming weekend.

The Marletown Democratic club's annual picnic will be held Sunday, Sept. 12, from noon to 5 p.m. at the Marletown Recreation Area on Tongore Road. Serving as co-chairmen of the event are John Terwilliger and Alfred Terwilliger. The menu will feature barbecued chicken, hamburgers, hot dogs, liver and onions, baked beans, beverages, salads and desserts. Tickets may be purchased from the chairmen or any member of the club.

New Paltz Republican Club's annual barbecue will be Sunday at the New Paltz Rod and Gun Club on Old Kingston Road, New Paltz. Appetizers that include a clam bar; sausage and peppers on roll; hot dogs and soda and beer, will be served at 1 p.m. The main course of barbecued chicken, corn on the cob, tomatoes, watermelon, beverages and desserts, will be served at 2:30 p.m. Ulster County Republican Candidates will be introduced. Tickets are on sale at Savago's Insurance, Perrone's Insurance and Badami Farm Market or from club members: adults $6; children, $3, from ages six - 12. Children under six are free.

Esopus Republican Club Family Picnic will be held Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. at Rosenthal's Motel, Ulster Park. There will be swimming, games and a penny social. Admission is $2, children under six, free with an adult. Tickets are available from any member or may be purchased at the picnic. Food is advertised as "all you can eat."

Town of Ulster Democratic Social Club will hold its annual picnic at the Town of Ulster Park, Ulster Landing Road, Sunday, starting at 2 p.m. Rain date is Sept. 19. Food and beverages will be served. Several lawn games will be available. Donations of $2 per adult and $1 per child will be accepted. No advance tickets will be distributed. Several officials and candidates will be present.

DEAR ABBY

Eight-Year-Old Daughter Worried About Her Mother's Smoking Habits

DEAR ABBY: I am 8 years old and my name is Shelley Seibel. My Mom is 27 years old, and the reason I am writing to you is because my Mom smokes constantly.

Abby, please give me some suggestions as to how I can get her to quit smoking. I love my Mom and don't want her to die from lung cancer or heart failure at the age of 30.—WORRYING IN EVANS CITY, PA.

DEAR SHELLEY: What a beautiful daughter you are for being so worried about your Mom's health that you would write to me! People who smoke "constantly" would like to quit, but they lack the strength. Perhaps when your Mom sees this and realizes how much you love her, it will motivate her to quit. I hope so.

Write to me again, Shelley, and let me know if my suggestion has helped. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Mac and I have been married for three years, and we went together for two years before that. He's a terrific husband in every way, but something has come up lately that bothers me.

Mac plays softball three times a week. I always enjoyed going to the park to watch him play, but now that we have a baby, I can't go so often.

One night, Mac said, "I wish you wouldn't come to so many games. You make me nervous."

He says he plays lousy when I'm there. Abby, I've been watching him for years and he never played lousy, and I never made him nervous before.

I got to thinking that another guy on his team tells his wife to stay home because she makes him nervous, but everybody knows he likes to flirt with other girls, and if his wife's around, it cramps his style.

One of my friends said, "Maybe Mac just wants a night out with the boys." Another one said, "I'll bet he just wants to fool around." What do you think?—MAC'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: Since Mac has to contend with an umpire during the game, he doesn't need another "ump" when it's over. His overall batting average as a husband is what counts.

Some "boys" like to mourn their defeats and celebrate their victories sans wives occasionally, so don't be too possessive or suspicious.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college graduate, and I only graduated from high school.

My problem is the way he is always putting me down in front of people, calling me "dummy" and "stupid."

I worked in a factory so he could finish college. I have considered taking some courses at the local college, but if I start now, it will take me six years to get a degree, and in six years I will be 38!—PUT DOWN.

DEAR PUT: And how old will you be in six years if you DON'T go to college?

Start now!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

ERMA BOMBECK

The Impact of the 'Bachelor Survival' Course

About 10 years ago, a couple of boys were looking for a "snap course." They infiltrated a home ec. class.

It became so popular throughout the country special classes were formed and named "Bachelor Survival." In the past three years, the male enrollment has not only doubled, but in some high schools the males outnumber the females at the stoves.

What impact has this new breed had on our life styles?

I'll tell you what impact it's had. This country is producing (at an astronomical rate) what women who live in the kitchen refer to as "Domestic Jocks."

They're the Super Stars of the souffles . . . the dazzlers of the microwaves . . . the weekend grillers at the outdoor grills.

But they're stars. They don't do pans, pots, stains or ovens. They don't touch charcoal, dripping beaters, dirty blenders or skillets that have to be soaked. When they cook, it's first class all the way — fresh garlic, fresh lemons, fresh parsley and fresh mushrooms.

My husband never cooks out that I don't feel like I am assisting a surgeon at a double valve by-pass.

"Tongs! Quick! The tongs," he commands. (I slap them professionally in his hands.)

Next, "The pepper mill. Wipe."

I press a dishtowel to his forehead.

"Not the perspiration, you turkey — the sauce from my cute apron."

After hours of intense concentration, the Domestic Jock speaks. "Are the plates and forks for the salad chilled? Good. The potatoes done? The vegetables cooked just to the peak of flavor? Good. You sprayed for bugs? Fine. Because we are ready to eat NOW!"

No warning. No time to socialize. No second drink. Just like that. When he says the steaks are done, we are expected to have our forks poised for the first bite.

The other night he wandered into the kitchen, peeled off his asbestos mittens and threw them into the clothes hamper. "Well, I pulled another one through,"

he said. I looked at the kitchen sink, piled high with dirty pots, pans and dishes, the countertop with melted butter, dirty tinfoil, leftover rolls and wilted salad. The grill was corroded with barbecue sauce.

"Next weekend I think I'll do my kabob number on the grill."

I gave him a fetal ovation.

Anne Murray
TORONTO: Husky-voiced singer Anne Murray, 30, gave birth to a seven-pound boy here. It is the first child for the Canadian singer who skyrocketed to fame with her recording of "Snowbird." . . . HOLLYWOOD: Singing star Diana Ross and her husband, Bob Silberstein, tied a reconciliation recently in an effort to save their faltering marriage for the sake of their three little girls. However, things have not worked out and divorce proceedings are underway. . . . PARIS: Premier Raymond Barre announced he will soon name a "delegate for women's condition" to oversee the application of a five-year plan designed to insure full equality of the sexes in France. Francoise Giroud, a journalist, now a deputy minister for culture, may be Barre's choice. Back in 1974, following his election, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing named Francoise to his cabinet and put her in charge of the condition of women. She was moved to her present post in a recent cabinet shuffle when the ministry for women was abolished.

Phyllis Diller
The Minneapolis Tribune reported that in 1969 Joan Mondale, wife of the Democratic vice presidential candidate, put her family on a diet to show people on welfare how to limit meals to 23 cents per person. She used hot dogs, rice, biscuit mix, tuna and spaghetti "but drew the line at grits." Her press secretary reports Mrs. Mondale "never said she didn't like them, she didn't know how to find them. Now she thinks she'll learn to like them." . . . Phyllis Diller's jokes were "too dirty" for many elderly people at a special "golden age" day at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver. Six hundred asked for their $1 back and got it. . . . Gwen Verdon leaves Broadway musical, "Chicago", in January and talk is Raquel Welch will be her replacement in New York.

Special Registration Scheduled Sept. 7 at UCCC for Older Adults

STONE RIDGE—Ulster County Community College will hold special registration Tuesday, Sept. 7, for older adults, 60 years and older, who desire to audit Fall Semester credit courses without paying tuition. Registration will be held from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Registrar's office in Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus. The only charge for taking these courses is a $1 insurance fee.

Older adults will receive distinctive ID cards which will provide for campus identification and allow them to use the Library on the Stone Ridge campus.

Participating adults will not be examined or graded. They will not receive credit or be counted for state aid. The program is administered in a manner which will result in no additional expense to the taxpayers.

College officials feel this service to older adults will enable them to maintain their mental alertness and continue their active participation in community affairs.

The older adults will be able to audit credit courses offered at the Stone Ridge campus and the Life Long Learning Centers at Coleman High School, in Kingston; Ellenville High School and Saugerties High School.

Anxiety...That's What Ozark Calls It — TARGET PRACTICE

By UPI

The way the Philadelphia Phillies played Labor Day, it appeared to some fans that the club had decided to take the day off.

The Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the faltering Phillies, 6-2 and 5-1, to move to within 5½ games of Philadelphia in the National League East. The Phillies had led by 16½ games just two weeks ago before their current slide started August 25—ironically the same date their infamous collapse in 1964 began when they blew a 6½-game lead in the last two weeks of the season.

The Phillies, who have now lost 10 of their last 11 games, made a total of four errors and had two wild pitches in the double defeat as Pittsburgh won for the 12th time in its last 13 games.

The two dressing rooms after the doubleheader were a study in contrasts. "It's fantastic," cried an enthusiastic Bill Robinson in the bubbling Pirate clubhouse.

"We gonna catch the Phillies," yelled a confident Frank Taveras.

"Usually when a team goes into a slump

it's two or three guys," said Larry Bowa, the Phillies' shortstop. "We've got seven or eight guys in a slump."

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark remained optimistic despite his club's recent setbacks.

"I don't think there is such a word as 'tenseness' on this ball club. I guess it's anxiety, if it's anything," said Ozark. "I think we're going to come back, and I think we're going to win."

Even the two clubs plans for Tuesday, an off day, were revealing of each club's current emotional state.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh has decided to give the Pirates the day off while Ozark, who states publicly that he hasn't yet pushed the panic button, ordered the Phillies to take extra batting practice. The two clubs resume their series Wednesday night and conclude their season series in Philadelphia September 15 and 16.

Five different Pirates drove in a run in the opener to back the combined five-hit pitching of Bruce Kison and Kent Tekulve. Every player in the starting lineup except catcher Duffy Dyer had at least one hit in the 12-hit attack.

In the nightcap, Larry Demery hurled a four-hitter while the Pirates collected 10 hits off three different Philadelphia pitchers. Robinson, who had an RBI single in the first game, had a two-run triple in the second game, while Richie Hebner, showing signs of breaking out of a season-long slump, smashed a solo homer.

In other NL games, New York beat Chicago, 7-4. San Francisco nipped Atlanta 4-3. St. Louis beat Montreal 3-1 before losing 3-2. Cincinnati edged Houston 9-8 and Los Angeles defeated San Diego 4-1.

Giants 4, Braves 3

Gary Alexander singled home what

proved to be the winning run in the sixth inning to give San Francisco a victory over Atlanta. Jim Wynn hit his 15th homer for the Braves.

Cards 3-2, Expos 1-3

Earl Williams singled home the winning run with two out in the ninth inning to give Montreal its second-game victory over St. Louis after the Cards won the opener behind Pete Falcone's four-hit pitching.

Reds 9, Astros 8

Joe Morgan climaxed an eight-run third inning with his second grand slam homer of the season to lead Cincinnati past Houston. Morgan's slam was the third of his career and 27th homer this season, a career high. He added a single to boost his league-leading average to .341. Morgan now has 104 runs batted in and has scored 103 runs.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1

Don Sutton, closing in on a 20-victory season for the first time in an 11-year career, tossed a four-hitter for his 18th win and Steve Garvey drove in a pair of runs to lead Los Angeles over 20-game winner Randy Jones and San Diego.

Kingman Regains Lead In National HR Race

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dave Kingman, who missed 35 games because of torn ligaments in his left thumb, regained the National League home run lead Monday when he blasted his 34th to lead the New York Mets to a 7-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Mets' slugger sustained the injury on July 18. He came off the disabled list Aug. 27 and since then has homered twice.

"I feel very close to where I was before the injury," said the six-year veteran. "Occasionally the thumb will hurt, like when I swing and miss making contact."

His first-inning homer followed a walk to Billy Baldwin. Kingman just missed another homer when his shot in the fifth hit high off the centerfield wall for a run-scoring double. He has six homers in seven games in Wrigley Field this season.

New York added two more runs in the second on consecutive singles by John Stearns, Bud Harrelson, Jerry Koosman, and Bruce Boicclair. The last two each drove in a run.

Steve Stone was the victim of Kingman's blast. Stone lasted just 1 1-3 innings and suffered his sixth loss in nine decisions.

Koosman went the distance for his 18th victory against eight defeats. The southpaw struck out nine, walked five, and gave up nine hits.

Rick Monday greeted Koosman by slapping his first pitch into the leftfield bleachers for his 28th homer. Monday also had a two-run single in the sixth.

"My leg (slapping the right one) is the key to my pitching and I wasn't bringing it back," said Koosman. "I was struggling, not getting the ball down, and they were hitting me."

"I told myself the leg was my trouble. It is 75 per cent of my pitching. If it's right, everything falls into perspective. If it isn't, it throws everything off."

"I didn't feel good until the seventh inning. That's the longest I struggled in a long time."

A Sad Day for a Pair of Notre Dame Greats

By UPI

"What though the odds be great or small, old Notre Dame will win over all..."

Except on the final National Football League waiver list Monday when two of the greatest players in Notre Dame history were cut as the 28 teams pared down to the 43 and 49 player limits in preparation for the season-opening weekend.

Terry Hanratty, the most prolific passer in Notre Dame history, was pink slipped by the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers and Jack Snow, who caught 60 passes in one year at South Bend, was waived by the Los Angeles Rams.

Hanratty and Snow were among a host of high-priced veterans to get the ax as the 26 established teams reduced their rosters to 43 players. The two incoming expansion teams, Tampa Bay and Seattle, trimmed down to 49 players.

Other established players sent into the unemployment ranks included running backs Ron Johnson, Duane Thomas, Dave Osborn and Robert Holmes; kickers

There were also a number of trades consummated: Dallas dealt Toni Fritsch, the highest scoring kicker in the league and completed 159-of-417 passes for 24 touchdowns. But he lost out to rookie Mike Kruzcek of Boston College as Terry Bradshaw's understudy.

Snow, 33, was one of the greatest receivers in Los Angeles history, ranking second to Elroy Hirsch in career yardage (6,012) and touchdown passes (45). At dable with the continued development of younger running backs Scott Laidlaw and Doug Dennison. Osborn was an 11-year garbage man runner for the Minnesota Vikings, appearing in two Super Bowls.

Hunt, who missed an extra point and a 26-yard field goal as the Giants fell 14-13 to the San Diego Chargers in the preseason finale last Saturday, was made expendable when New York acquired Danelo; Gossett and Wersching became excess when the Chargers picked up Fritsch.

Morin, a 10-year veteran with Cleveland, lost his job to Oscar Roan last season; both Clark (by Los Angeles) and Athas (by Minnesota) were released in favor of younger players; and the mystery man Matuszak, the No. 1 choice of the 1973 draft, was cut by Washington, his fourth team in three years.

The acquisition of Munson, who asked to be traded when Detroit Coach Rick Forzano named Joe Reed as his No. 1 quarterback, gives Seattle an established QB to provide insurance should left-hander Jim Zorn falter at the position.

Notre Dame, he caught 60 passes for 1,114 yards in 1964, his final season there, as the Irish went 9-1 in Ara Parseghian's first year. Snow lost his starting job on the Rams to Ron Jessie last season.

Holmes, Taylor and Marsalis were members of 1969 Super Bowl champion Kansas City but Marsalis was the only one cut by the Chiefs. Taylor and Holmes were waived by the Houston Oilers.

Johnson and Thomas were both attempting comebacks this season with the Dallas Cowboys but were found expen-

Wheelin' and Dealin' At Grid Giants' Camp

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was as if Grand Central Station had taken a one day leave of absence from New York City to relocate 40 miles north in Pleasantville, the training base of the New York Giants.

Grand Central Station is what the New York camp resembled Monday with all the players shuffling in and out as the Giants scrambled to reach the 43-man player limit for the 1976 season which begins Sunday.

The Giants acquired two players in separate transactions, kicker Joe Danelo from Green Bay and guard Ron Mikolajczyk from Oakland, traded reserve tight end Jim Obradovich to San Francisco, waived seven players and placed one other, safety Robert Giblin, on the injured reserve list.

In getting down to the 43-man limit, the Giants waived veteran center Bob Hyland, kicker George Hunt, quarterback David Jaynes, wide receiver Craig Brantley, linebacker John Tate, defensive tackle Bill Windauer and offensive tackle Bill Eilenbogan.

The biggest face change on the New York team that finished 5-9 last season is on the offensive unit where there are eight newcomers, including five members of the defunct Memphis Southmen. Topping that list are fullback Larry Csonka and four of his Memphis linemen: center Ralph Hill, Mikolajczyk, tackle Mike Gibbons and tight end Gary Shirk.

Two of the five newcomers on the defensive team are also from the World Football League, defensive backs Bill Bryant (Birmingham) and Larry Mallory (Memphis). The other three additions to the defensive team are all rookies — defensive lineman Troy Archer and linebackers Harry Carson and Dan Lloyd.

The only draftee to crack the offensive team was running back Gordon Bell, who is likely to start in the New York backfield alongside Csonka. Free agent Jim Robinson survived the nine-week camp to earn one of four wide receiver spots and Norm Snead returns after a one-year stop-over in San Francisco to back up Craig Morton at quarterback.

But the biggest addition is Danelo, the regular kicker for Green Bay last season while Chester Marcol sat on the sidelines reecovering from a knee injury.

The troubled New York Jets lopped the final six players off their roster to reach the 43-man limit Monday and began preparations for this week's season opener against the Cleveland Browns.

The Jets, who capped a 1-5 preseason slate by suffering a 41-6 humiliation at the hands of the Pittsburgh Steelers last weekend, took their biggest gamble by cutting second year man J.J. Jones, thus leaving only two quarterbacks on the roster.

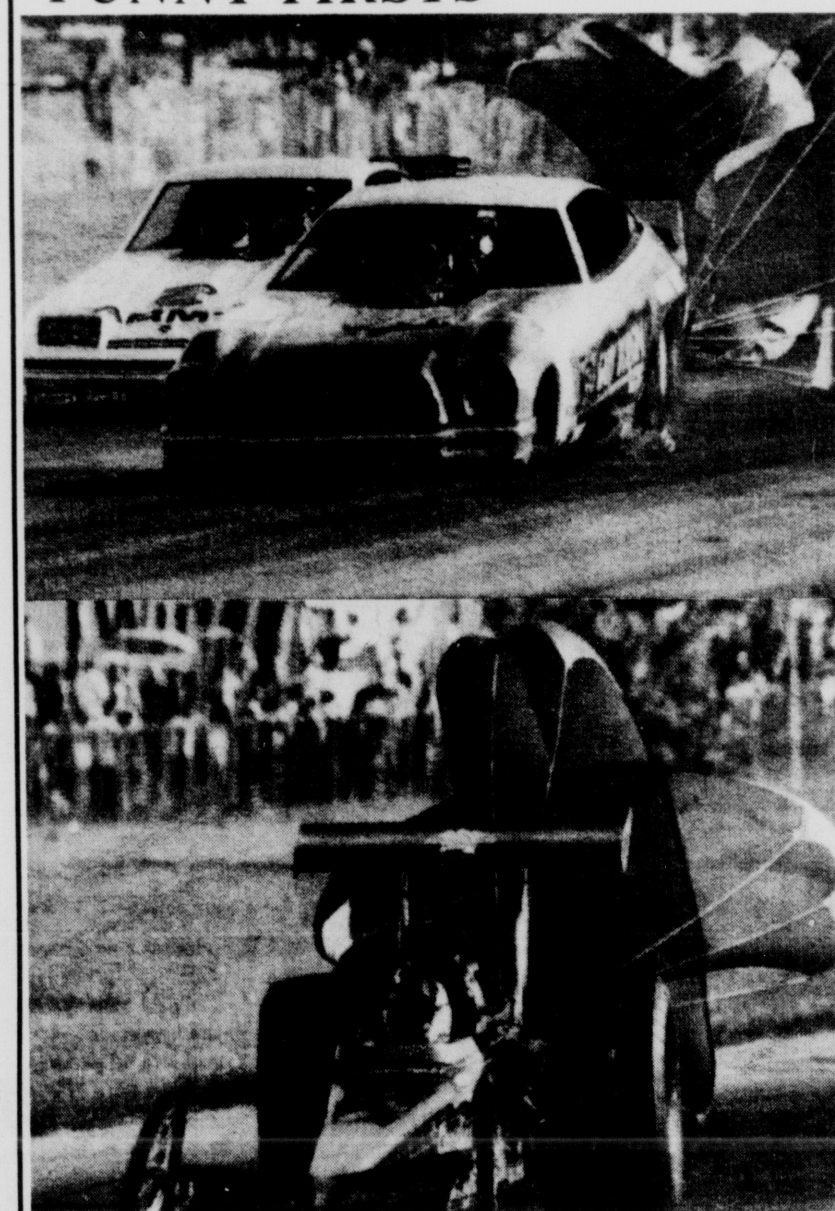

One of those quarterbacks is pro football's top active drawing card, Joe Namath, who has had a history of knee problems since the Jets won the 1968 Super Bowl. Namath, who has had four knee operations, has remained injury-free in the last two seasons but last year was his worst as a pro as he completed just .482 per cent of his passes and tossed 28 interceptions.

The only other quarterback is No. 1 draft pick Richard Todd, a durable sort still learning the art of pocket passing after a brilliant career as a running QB under Bear Bryant at Alabama.

Also waived were tackle Gordie Browne, the No. 2 draft pick in 1974; tight end Willie Brister, a third year man from Southern U.; wide receiver James Scott, who was on injured reserve last year, defensive end Don Ratliff, a second year man from Maryland who was with the Philadelphia Eagles last year, and rookie linebacker Mike Lemon of Kansas.

Two other players were placed on injured reserve: safety Ken Schroy, a rookie from Maryland who suffered a broken ankle in the exhibition against Pittsburgh last Saturday, and defensive end Dave Wasick of San Jose State.

A Little Convincing Aids Nettles' Bid for a Crown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Graig Nettles, with a loud assist from manager Billy Martin, took over the American League home run lead Monday night in leading the New York Yankees to a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Nettles hit his 25th homer in the fifth inning, but it took all of Martin's persuasive powers to convince the umpires of it.

With two Yankees on base, Nettles slammed a Tom Murphy pitch over the right-centerfield fence, where it struck a wall about 20-feet behind the fence, and bounded back onto the field. The Red Sox put the ball back in play with the approval of second base umpire Greg Kosc and Nettles was stopped at second.

"I saw it go out of sight and I knew it was over the wall so I figured I might as well argue," Nettles said.

Martin, who rarely worries about whether he should or shouldn't get into an argument, joined the discussion and got first base umpire Joe Brinkman to concur the ball had gone over the fence.

"I knew when I was talking with him (Brinkman) that he was going to change his mind," said Martin, who is not always so successful. "Sometimes I just get that feeling."

Asked if he ever had dreamed of one day winning the home run title—he leads Sal Bando and Lee May by one—Nettles said, "I've thought about it, but I've never come close, though."

The Yankees' victory increased their lead in the A.L. East to 11½ games over second-place Baltimore.

Newly-acquired Cesar Tovar drove in two New York runs with a bases-loaded double and Mickey Rivers brought home another with an infield out in the first inning.

The Red Sox scored twice in the seventh off winner Doyle Alexander on singles by Carl Yastrzemski, Carlton Fisk and Jim Rice and an error by Rivers. They added three more in the eighth on Rick Burleson's homer and Cecil Cooper's two-run double. A leaping deflection by Lou Piniella in right field prevented Cooper's hit from going over the fence for a game-tying home run.

Rangers 5, Royals 4

Manager Frank Lucchesi of the Texas Rangers is careful not to spoil a good thing—at least not off the field.

On the field, his Rangers have been doing everything possible to ruin the season for American League West front runner Kansas City. Texas, the only team with a winning record against the Royals this season, made it 11 victories in 15 games Monday night with a 5-4 victory.

Toby Harrah singled home Dave Moates to cap a four-run Texas ninth inning and hand Kansas City its seventh loss in the last eight games, enabling second-place Oakland to crawl within six games of first place.

But Lucchesi, whose team has won only 17 of its last 57 games, was quick to praise his team's patsy after the victory.

"The pressure is still not on them," Lucchesi said of the Royals. "When you get just two or three games ahead, watch out. That's when the pressure starts mounting. But I'd rather be in Kansas City's place with a six-game lead than try and catch them."

The Rangers trailed 4-1 entering the ninth inning but singles by Roy Howell, Joe Lahoud and Juan Beniquez produced one run off Kansas City starter and loser Doug Bird. Moates followed with a two-out, two-run double to chase Bird out of the game and tie the score, 4-4. Royals' reliever Mark Littell then walked Gene Clines before surrendering the game-winning hit to Harrah.

"The law of averages catch up with you sooner or later," explained Lucchesi of his team's mastery over the Royals. "They beat the hell out of us all last year and at the start of this season. We had to get some wins sooner or later."

It was just the second time in the last seven games the Royals have scored more than two runs, as Kansas City has fallen into a rut along with Philadelphia, resurrecting a pennant race when just one month ago the flags were all but conceded.

"Losing leads hasn't been one of our problems," said Royals' Manager Whitey Herzog, "at least not until tonight. Maybe this will wake them up."

In other games, Minnesota beat Chicago 3-2, Milwaukee and Cleveland split a doubleheader with both games ending at 3-2, Oakland defeated California 2-1 and Detroit tripped Baltimore 5-4.

Twins 3, White Sox 2

Craig Kusick hit a solo homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning to give Bill Campbell, the third Minnesota pitcher, his 15th win against four defeats. The 15 victories are tops among major league relief pitchers.

Indians 2-3, Brewers 3-2

John Lowenstein scored from second base in the fifth inning of the nightcap on catcher Charlie Moore's throwing error to give Cleveland a split. Rookie Dan Thomas doubled in a run in the ninth inning to give the first game to the Brewers.

A's 2, Angels 1

Phil Garner's single drove in Claudell Washington from second base with one out in the 11th inning to pull Oakland a game closer to Kansas City. Frank Tanana struck out 15 in 10 innings but was not around for a decision.

Tigers 5, Orioles 4

Ben Oglivie's bloop single over shortstop scored pinch-runner Bruce Kimm from second base to cap a four-run eighth inning and knock Baltimore another game behind the Yankees. Dave Roberts raised his record to 13-14 despite giving up all four runs in the first inning.

Poughkeepsie Captures State Moose Tournament

KINGSTON—Poughkeepsie's Moose Club baseball team finally had a close game Monday morning and showed it could win with just a thin margin of victory as well as by the big score as it beat Syracuse, 3-2, to win the state tournament at the National field.

Ben Moore struck out 14 Syracuse batters and allowed only four hits and solo runs in the second and third innings. He was supported by Poughkeepsie's seven hits, including three by Rich Hannah as the winners scored two in the first and the winning run in the fourth.

Syracuse's Bob Dillmore, who whiffed six, took the loss. The final was the conclusion of the three-day, 20-team tourney.

Poughkeepsie made the finals on the strength of two victories on both Saturday and Sunday, including scores on the latter day of 10-3 over Kingston II and 8-1 over Riverhead. Syracuse got into the finals by topping Binghamton, 10-2, and Endicott, 6-0 Sunday.

BOWLING

KINGSTON — Action is starting to swing into high gear in the 1976-77 Kingston Area Bowling season.

Among the early highlights were a 579 series by Bob Nealis in the Sunday Nite Mixed (Silver) League and a 232 solo by Drew Pinkham in that same organization. Irv Brown topped the City Minor with a 574 and Herb McElrath led the Friday Nite Fun with a 538.

The scores:

CITY MINOR — Irv Brown, 202-574; John Finch, 218-570; Rich Brocco, 566; Bob Finch, 551; Marc Sonnenburg, 545; Fruit Basket, 959-2570.

Finley Back in Court

CHICAGO (UPI) — Charles O. Finley, owner of the Oakland A's, takes Bowie Kuhn and baseball to federal court today to try and overturn the commissioner's voiding of the sales of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million and Rolie Fingers and Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $2 million.

Should Finley receive a favorable ruling from District Judge Frank McGarr, the players could be transferred and the shift might have an effect on both the American League playoffs and the World Series.

Finley was expected to ask the judge to rule that Kuhn must step out of the case now. The Yankees were expected to testify that they still wanted Blue, the sooner the better.

Should such a ruling be made, the judge will be asked to order Kuhn to make Blue eligible for both the playoffs and the Series. The Yankees now lead the AL East by 11 1/2 games.

The hearing, expected to last two or three days, was the first legal step in Finley's seven-part suit against Kuhn, the Yankees, the Red Sox and organized baseball in total.

The sales were completed by Finley late on June 15, the trading deadline.

Finley asked triple damages of $10.5 million from baseball for violating the Sherman antitrust act, as well as injunctions preventing Kuhn from voiding the sales and forcing the Yankees and Red Sox to pay their money and take the players. In one section of the suit, Finley asked for $10 million damages from Kuhn.

None of the individual clubs, nor Kuhn, however, would be obliged to pay any damages which might be assessed by the court.

Colts' Players Are Unhappy

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Baltimore Colts General Manager Joe Thomas, his team disgruntled over the resignation of coach Ted Marchbroda, has indicated he hopes to have the team's head coaching problem resolved by this evening.

Thomas met for 2 1/2 hours Monday with players, led by quarterback Bert Jones, who demanded that Marchbroda be rehired.

After the meeting, Thomas declined to talk with reporters, but team spokesman Barry Jones read a statement:

"We hope to have the position of head coach of the Baltimore Colts resolved by Tuesday evening. We are exploring several avenues in our pursuit of a solution.

"The coaching staff is currently preparing for our game against New England this Sunday."

Marchbroda resigned Sunday after a dispute with Thomas and owner Robert Irsay over team control.

After the meeting with Thomas, Jones said, "Right now it's kind of up in the air. There are people who have painted themselves into the corner. Now it's who's going to step on the wet paint. Is Joe going to let it sink or is he going to let it float?"

Jones said he thought Thomas would have a tough time resolving the coaching dispute.

Thomas and Irsay "have completely destroyed the team by forcing Ted Marchbroda out the week of the first league game," Jones said. "I'm not sure anyone could put this team back together after this arbitrary action out of the front office."

"The only man who could be Ted Marchbroda," Jones said. "Ted Marchbroda should be reinstated as head coach."

The team supports Marchbroda's desire to have complete control of field operations, according to Jones.

"He only wanted to select, control and direct his players to be a team — a winning team, the winning team we had last year," Jones said in a statement on behalf of the players, whom he described as "sad" during their meeting.

Marchbroda's resignation came after a 4 1/2 hour meeting with Irsay and Thomas in Milwaukee Sunday.

Guillermo Villas makes return

Steve Lobell Is Recovering

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UPI) — Steve Lobell, the 3-year-old trotter that went into shock and nearly died three hours after winning the Hambletonian harness race Saturday, is now in "excellent" condition. The bay colt was stricken while resting in his stall after winning the marathon four-heat contest at the DuQuoin State Fairground and earning his owners $131,762.

"His (Steve Lobell's) condition yesterday was excellent and I have no reason to suspect it would not be the same today," Fair General Manager Fred Huff said Monday. "He's been all right ever since about 9 o'clock Saturday night."

"It got a little sticky going there for maybe two, two-and-a-half hours, but he's been on his feet since then. The vet said he would lead a normal racing career."

Dr. Tom Dunkin of Chicago, a former president of the American Society of Veterinary Practitioners, after the race injected fluids containing vitamins and electrolytes into the horse and reduced its temperature from 106 to 102 degrees.

Dunkin said the horse suffered from "exhaustion and shock."

After the colt's temperature had dropped, Dunkin said it "was out of danger and I predict can follow a normal racing program."

The horse could win harness racing's Triple Crown if he runs next month in the Kentucky Futurity at Lexington, Ky. He earlier won the Yonker's trot.

Gamble Turns Into a Fortune

RUIDOSO, N.M. (UPI) — J.D. and Elsie Kitchens are retired school teachers with a gamblers' streak.

Six weeks ago, shortly after their quarterhorse Real Wind had posted the top qualifying time for the $368,000 Rainbow Futurity, they turned down a "write-your-own-ticket" offer to sell the horse.

The offer was for more than $100,000 and although it was more money than the Kitchens had ever seen, they decided to keep the filly.

"We had grown very fond of her and besides, money just has a way of flying away," said Mrs. Kitchens at the time.

The gamble turned into a fortune Monday.

The Kitchens, owners of a 32-acre farm in the eastern New Mexico town of Fort Sumner, watched Real Wind outrun a field of the country's finest 2-year-old speedsters for a onelength victory in the 18th running of the $1 million All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

The victory, the seventh straight for the unbeaten horse, boosted her earnings to $456,374 and made her one of the leading money winners of all time.

Real Wind, who won the Rainbow a week after the Kitchens turned down the lucrative offer, made it look easy in downing Lord Winsalot and Mr. Glory Oh in the 440-yard sprint.

Nastase Is Pulling in the Crowds

FOREST HILLS (UPI) — Will the full moon bring the fangs out of Ilie Nastase?

A U.S. Open crowd of "Nasty Watchers" will be out in force tonight to see the Romanian under the lights against bullet-serving Roscoe Tanner and some people are expecting to see blood.

"Does Nastase sleep in a coffin?" someone asked Jimmy Connors, Nastase's best friend on the tour.

"No, but he has fangs," Connors said. "Maybe he is a vampire."

Far from taking reprisal against the black-haired Nastase for his often vicious behavior on court last week when he repeatedly cursed linesmen and the umpire and spat at Hans-Jürgen Pohmann after beating him, the U.S. Open is actively promoting him at its ticket windows with signs like "Ilie Nastase is playing tonight." A record crowd for night play of more than 10,000 is expected to turn out.

Connors said the kind of crowds that have been showing up for the matches here may have accounted for some of the behavior of someone like Nastase.

"New Yorkers come out to see blood," Connors said. "They want to see us fight, scratch, kick and bite for five hours. But I love crowd participation. And I'd hate to say anything bad about the crowd. I have to face them in two days."

Connors beat Vitas

Gerulaitis before 7,152 people Monday night. The easy 6-4, 6-3, 6-1 victory put Connors into the quarterfinals against Jan Kodes, who was runner-up here twice on grass and champion on the grass at Wimbledon in 1973 against a field reduced by a player boycott.

"Last year at this time I was hitting great," said Connors, who lost in the finals to Manuel Orantes in 1975. "This year I'm hitting great, but I'm lighter and moving faster. I'm really peaking for this tournament, getting better all the time. I'm just where I want to be. The time to beat me is in the first round."

Connors hasn't played Kodes since beating him on the grass here two years ago on the way to the championship, but said he's not worried. He's not even going to think about Kodes.

"Why fret about my next match?" Connors said. "I like to stay loose. I don't have to think about Kodes. I know how he plays. He knows how I play."

Kodes pulled a "Nasty" in the fourth set tiebreaker against South African Frew McMillan in the most closely contested match Monday afternoon. Arguing loudly about a linesman's call, Kodes held up play for almost five minutes after losing the first point.

McMillan eventually lost the tiebreak 7-3 and the match, 6-4, 7-6, 2-6, 7-6, storming off the court and complaining Kodes' antics had broken his concentration and the Czechoslovakian knew he "had everything to gain and nothing to lose" by his lengthy arguing.

Eddie Dibbs, the 5-foot-7 clay court specialist from North Miami Beach who, extended Bjorn Borg to four sets in the finals of the U.S. Professionals last week, takes on third-seeded Guillermo Vilas of Argentina in a quarterfinal match Wednesday. Dibbs beat Vilas in three sets in the U.S. Pros and holds a 2-1 edge on him this year.

Dibbs had no trouble defeating 20-year old grass court player Colin Dowdeswell of Rhodesia, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, after Vilas overcome a stumbling start to beat Russia's Teimuraz Kakulia, 7-5, 6-4, 6-0.

The women's second seed, Evonne Goolagong of Australia, breezed through a 40-minute, 6-2, 6-0 triumph over Francoise Durr of France and meets the winner of today's match between Rosie Casals and Terry Holladay.

Chris Evert takes on Great Britain's Sue Barker in one of the two stadium matches tonight, with the winner going to the quarterfinals against Russia's Natasha Chmyreva, a 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 victor Monday over Kathy Kuykendall of Miami, Fla.

Bjorn Borg, the men's second seed, is featured on the stadium court this afternoon against 15th-seeded Brian Gottfried.

Nonstop Solo Flight Across Pacific

Nippon War Ace Sets Air History

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Japanese World War II flying ace Shoji Kawamoto landed 400 miles off target after becoming the first pilot to complete a solo nonstop flight across the Pacific in a single-engine aircraft.

"I was very tired," the 51-year-old former "Zero" fighter pilot said Monday after his 34-hour, 4,000-mile journey from Tokyo.

Kawamoto, credited with shooting down 19 Allied planes during the war, still had 100 gallons of fuel in his single-engine Comanche 260 craft when he landed at a small northern California airfield. His original destination had been Seattle, Wash.

Kawamoto, who made good flight time with the help of a brisk tail wind, received an escort of two military planes as he approached the coast, the FAA said.

Kawamoto said although he prepared for six months for the flight, he wasn't able to sleep prior to takeoff because of 30 hours of frantic activity, including publicity appearances in Tokyo.

He told reporters in Tokyo he conceived the idea of flying over the Pacific in order to console the souls of Japanese and Allied troops killed during the war.

Kawamoto served during World War II at Rabaul Air Base on New Britain Island in the South Pa

They Meet Halfway At Start

ST. IGNACE, Mich. (UPI) — Jerry Root and Verna Coger couldn't agree on whether they should be married in Michigan's Lower Peninsula or the Upper Peninsula.

They compromised Monday when they were wed near the middle of the Mackinac Bridge, which spans the two peninsulas at the Straits of Mackinac.

Since their vows coincided with the annual Labor Day bridge walk, the young couple had 26,500 persons on their guest list — including Gov. William G. Milliken.

"You couldn't ask for a more beautiful setting," said Root. "Anyway, why not on Labor Day when the governor and everyone else is there?"

Their argument over a wedding site was a regional dispute. Root is from Battle Creek in the Lower Peninsula; his bride is from Newberry in the Upper Peninsula.

Levitt: More Auditors Could Hike Tax Take

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's office says statewide sales tax collections could be increased by tens of millions of dollars if more auditors were hired.

The Comptroller's report on the Sales Tax Unit of the city's Department of Tax Collection said the unit could also increase collections by changing certain procedures.

According to the report, only 1.5 per cent of the vendors in the state are covered by field auditors each year — "far short" of the 7 per cent regarded as a minimum by a 1967 State Tax Commission study. In fiscal 1975, gross statewide collections were about $2 billion, and the city's share was more than $791 million. Statewide, the report said, field audits resulted in additional assessments of $82 million in 1973-74 and 1974-75.

"It is likely that this amount could have been increased by a minimum one-third ($27 million) with a proportionate increase in field audit coverage," Levitt said.

City Finance Commissioner Ivan E. Irizarry said collections over the past year worked out to $2,600 per auditor workday, the highest in the state. He called it "an achievement that is difficult to improve upon."

Levitt said this violated the city's agreement with the state on administering the sales tax program, but Irizarry disagreed. He said a "minimum number of experienced people" are needed to work with temporary employees hired for such periods.

The Levitt report maintained the city-state agreement "specifically forbids this practice."

31 Dead in S. Africa Crash, Officials Rule Out Sabotage

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A commuter train carrying blacks to a segregated township hurtled into a parked express train outside Johannesburg Monday, killing more than 30 persons in one of South Africa's worst rail disasters.

Although Johannesburg has been the scene of racial violence for more than two months, railroad officials ruled out sabotage.

Officials said at least 31 persons were killed and more than 70 injured when the commuter carrying blacks to the segregated township at Benoni, 30 miles east of Johannesburg, slammed into the rear of a parked express taking hundreds of mine workers home to Mozambique.

Screaming passengers, who scrambled from the wreckage, fled at the sight of severed limbs and pools of blood along the tracks, witnesses said.

Firemen and rescue workers battled for hours to cut trapped passengers from the twisted metal.

The high-speed impact almost telescoped the express train's rear coach and railroad officials called it one of South Africa's worst train disasters.

"Everyone seemed to be screaming or groaning," said one survivor, Mathews Mashabane of Johannesburg, who was in the second coach of the commuter train. "A woman sitting opposite me, who had been looking out of a window, started screaming and then I was flung halfway down the length of the coach."

"The next thing I remember was standing next to the train looking down at a severed arm in the dust at my feet."

Witnesses said a guard in the rear of the Mozambique-bound train — which had stopped at a red light — threw himself out of the coach moments before it virtually disintegrated in the explosion.

While scores of ambulance workers and motorists from a nearby freeway ferried the dead and wounded to hospitals, railroad staff worked to repair the track — the main line to the eastern Transvaal province and Mozambique.

Despite the ferocity of the collision, damage to the line was minor and the express departed for the Mozambique capital of Maputo five hours after the crash.

MISS ITALY

Paola Brescino (r), 16, of the Trapani soccer team and a former Miss Sicily, is all smiles after she was named Miss Italy 1976. With her is Anna Maria Zugarelli who was chosen Miss Cinema Lazio 1976.

N.Y. Neighborhood Services Ripped

NEW YORK (UPI) — Comptroller Harrison J. Goldin has scored the city's Office of Neighborhood Services, saying it is guilty of overstaffing, poor fiscal management and a slowness in taking advantage of available grants.

In a report on an audit of the 35 ONS neighborhood centers, Goldin Monday pointed to two centers in Fort Greene and Crown Heights in Brooklyn, which he said were overstaffed at a cost of $50,000 in "unnecessary salaries and fringe benefits."

Goldin said the areas of wastefulness and poor management included the rental of typewriters which could have been purchased outright for half the amount, and poor security arrangements for valuable equipment.

In a response to the audit, ONS director John J. Carty said ONS had already moved to correct some of the agency's problem areas before Goldin's report was issued.

Phantom Sought

NEW YORK (UPI)—Robert Low, in charge of seeing that New York's posters pass muster, said Monday he is searching for a "phantom poster plucker."

Somewhere in Queens, Low said, someone has been removing posters that were illegally pasted to city property, such as lamp posts and traffic signal boxes.

The Environmental Protection Agency administrator said he wants the phantom to come forward and submit evidence of his removal activities for consideration for an EPA "Partnership in Better Government" citation.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE

Pursuant to an order of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, issued August 13, 1976 in Case 26913, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation filed amendments to rate schedule P.S.C. No. 14—Electricity on September 1, 1976 to become effective on October 1, 1976. Said amendments set forth minimum insulation standards which must be met as a condition for obtaining electric service to a new one or two family residence for which a building permit is issued on or after April 1, 1977 or to a new multifamily residence for which a building permit is issued on or after July 1, 1977, or for obtaining expanded electric service to an existing residential premises for the purpose of supplying electric heat on or after April 1, 1977.

The insulation standards for new construction provide that coefficients of heat transmission (U) shall not exceed the following: roofs—.005; exterior walls—.007; foundation walls—.012; floors over unheated garages—.005; glazing—.009; entrance and service doors—.040; and edge insulation or heat duct insulation—.020. Total glazing and entrance door area shall not exceed the following percentages of exterior wall area: 24% for detached homes; 33% for attached homes; 33% for multifamily dwellings of three stories or less; and 42% for multifamily dwellings of more than three stories. Existing dwellings converted to electric heat must meet the above standards for roofs, glazing and exterior doors.

The detailed insulation standards are available for inspection at offices of the company.

Your Birthday Today: You now start on a long search for ideal manifestation of human dignity. Material gains are not your primary concern this year, but do require persistent routine effort to continue your existing supply line. Relationships are volatile, must be based on complete integrity, shared convictions. Today's natives arouse public interest in various causes, go in for organizing reform movements, seldom are conventional.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Today has a fait accompli air, so accept what has happened. Commitments made now must later be revised. Slips of the tongue, lapses of memory are typical.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Nobody is easily pleased. Emotional flare-ups are quick, undisciplined. Pause to con-

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D. LOSS: (Q.) My best friend had to move away. This just about tore me apart. You see, he is the only person that could help me at all. Also, and this may sound weird for a boy, but I love him very much as a friend and a brother. He is my blood brother.

I am about to go crazy because I miss him so much. I am 17 and he will be 17 in a few days. I want so much to send him a birthday card and a gift, but I don't know what his address is. He hasn't written me.

I am so depressed, and getting more so each day that I don't hear from him. Please help me if you can. — Hurting in Alabama.

(A.) It is not weird for one boy to love another boy as he would a brother. Do not be ashamed of this, and do not be distressed at your deep feeling of loss.

You undoubtedly will hear from your friend soon. But even if you don't, your pain at losing him will ease as time goes by.

Regardless of age or status in life, we all lose friends and loved ones. It is a part of life. It hurts us but from it we gain strength and greater appreciation of the people who are still near us.

THREE DAYS: (Q.) I like this boy named Kenny. He is a good kid and he asked me out. Before he asked me out, he called me every night. But we went out and now it's been three days and he hasn't called me a single time.

I've heard that he likes my friend, Sue. If so, why did he ask me out? I'm confused. Can you help me? — Ignored in Connecticut.

(A.) Sometimes a boy isn't sure whether he likes a girl until he goes out with her. Maybe Kenny changed his mind about you while you were together.

Do not be angry. If he calls you again, do not fuss at him for not calling sooner. Be friendly and encouraging. That is about all you can do.

BRIDGE HAND RECALLS
SIMPLE RIDDLE

© 1976 Los Angeles Times

by Alfred Sheinwold

When is a bridge player not a bridge player? As every partner knows, the answer is: Usually. Now let's look at the bridge hand that brought this simple riddle to mind.

South dealer

♣ A K J

South West North East
1 NT Pass 3 NT All Pass
Opening lead — ♣ Q

South took the ace of spades, cashed his high clubs and led a heart to dummy's ten. He then cashed the queen of clubs and continued with the jack of hearts.

West refused the trick, and South was in trouble: He was never going to get to his hand for the third heart trick.

Declarer continued hearts, and West took the ace. The jack of spades came back to dummy's king, and declarer got out of dummy with a spade in the hope that somebody would come to his rescue.

No such luck. West took two spades and led a diamond, whereupon East defeated the contract with two diamonds.

FIRST TRICK
Declarer should win the first trick with dummy's king of spades. Then he can clear the high clubs out of his hand and lead a heart to dummy's ten. He cashes the queen of clubs and continues with the jack of hearts.

The defenders can take the ace of hearts and at most two diamonds, but South can eventually get back to his hand with the ace of spades to cash the last heart as his ninth trick.

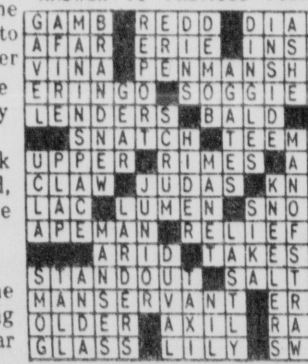

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: ♠ Q J 10 8 ♥ A 9 8 4 ♦ 9 7 3 ♣ 5 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You are tempted to show the spades, but your hand is worth only one voluntary bid and you should raise partner's major suit rather than show a suit of your own.

increased costs to the county over current solid waste processing and loss of recyclable material, since the process requires glass and paper consumption to operate effectively.

"I think it came right down to how much it would cost," said James F. Gilpatrick, a member of the public health committee and legislator from Kingston, which is having problems keeping up with its overabundance of sewage.

"I think we were talking about something like $30 million to operate this thing...we couldn't even stutter around that figure."

Gilpatrick also added that the county has plenty of available land for fills and new sewage treatment plants. "No one wants a system in their backyard, but we're getting to the point where the county will just have to tell towns that it has to be done."

The regional office of the Department of Environmental Conservation had previously stated its intent to hold an area-wide conference to discuss the possibilities of joint-county participation in a pyrolysis plant.

Dutchess County has indicated it is probably two to three years away from beginning construction on such a facility, but hoped it could have partnerships or at least firm commitments from its neighbors for use of the plant before going ahead with its construction.

•PILOT

The national police agency quoted Belenko as saying he had been planning for two years to seek asylum in the United States.

"Life in the Soviet Union today is like that of the czarist regime and there is no freedom," he was quoted as saying.

Belenko said he flew out of a Soviet air base in Siberia Monday, intending to fly into Chitose, a Japanese airport in northern Japan used by domestic airlines and Japan's Air Self-Defense Force.

But instead, he landed at Hakodate Airport on the northernmost Japanese main island of Hokkaido, about 500 miles north of Tokyo, after flying at low altitude to avoid radar and chasers.

The defense radar at Chitose had spotted Belenko's plane but lost track of it as it descended and landed at Hakodate. The plane, also known as the Foxbat, overshot the airport's 2,200-foot runway and crashed into two radar antennas.

Belenko then hopped out of the cockpit and fired a pistol in the air, but did not resist capture.

"I'm a lieutenant in the Soviet air force," the pilot told an interpreter. "I want to go to the United States. The plane is a MiG25. Please cover it up and take good care of it."

The plane, which can fly at more 1,850 miles per hour and set an altitude record of nearly 119,000 feet more than three years ago, is considered a major intelligence prize for the West.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said disposition of the jet was "a Japanese problem," but an administration source had a different answer.

"I imagine we will look it over," he said, smiling.

covery and will make unemployment worse in the long run. But they lack the votes to change it.

Until Congress passed the Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, budgets were prepared by presidents. Congress never even examined them as a whole. It simply passed spending and tax bills one at a time.

The new budget process went into effect partially last year and fully for the first time this year.

Ford Readies New Pact Offer

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. is preparing a second contract offer it hopes will be more acceptable to United Auto Workers Union whose 170,000 members at the No. 2 auto company are poised for a strike at midnight next Tuesday.

Sidney McKenna, Ford's chief negotiator, said after a brief Labor Day bargaining session Monday the exact timing for the new offer has not been decided.

He said negotiators are getting a little better feel of the overall situation and "the tempo is such that I think getting an agreement is quite doable."

McKenna said Ford bargainers had anticipated a rejection of the initial wage offer. But he said the auto company did not misread the union's goals and proposed things it knew might put Ford and the UAW on a collision course.

"There will have to be some alterations in that offer in order to reach an agreement," McKenna said. "It was never put forth as the last word."

The union last week rejected Ford's initial wage offer and said the likelihood of a strike appeared greater than at any time since the industry contract talks began in mid-July.

Current three-year industry-wide agreements expire at midnight, Sept. 14, but only Ford — the union's "target" — would be struck.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock, in blasting Ford's proposals as "take aways," said they would cost the average worker and his family $394 a year rather than give him economic gains.

Woodcock said the Ford proposal also failed to meet a key union demand for more paid days off the job — possibly 12

a year — in order to create jobs.

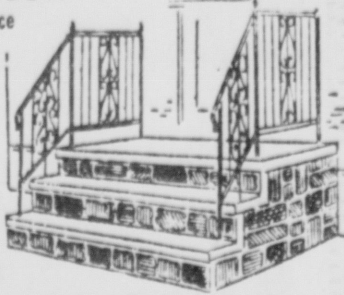

McKenna indicated there would have to be more meetings at the subcommittee level to learn where each side is going to stand firm before the second proposal is made.

Better Image Echeverria Aim

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Retiring Mexican President Luis Echeverria will meet with Americans this week in a final effort to rebuild his country's reputation in the United States.

Echeverria, who arrived today to officially open the MexFair 76 trade conference, was scheduled to meet with Jewish leaders, economic officials and Mexican-American political leaders during his two days in the United States.

The trade conference, started by Echeverria four years ago, in hopes of reducing Mexico's trade deficit to America. Every year Mexico sends $2.1 billion worth of goods north of the border but purchases from the U.S. run to an annual $5.1 billion.

MexFair 76, Mexico's largest trade exhibit in history, included 1,500 export products displayed by 900 Mexican manufacturers in 230,000 square feet of space at the San Antonio convention center.

Officials predicted 8,000 U.S. buyers would attend the conference. Partially to encourage buyers to make large purchases, last week Echeverria ordered the peso be allowed to float on international markets.

The result was a devaluation of the peso from 12.5 per U.S. dollar to about 20 pesos per dollar. It was hoped the lower prices would bring in more buyers.

Although economics is a primary reason for Echeverria's visit, he also will meet with Jewish leaders during his brief stay. Last year Mexico's tourist industry was boycotted by Jews because of United Nations statement equating Zionism with racism was favored by Mexico.

Jose Angel Gutierrez, of Crystal City, Tex., national chairman of La Raza Unida party, also was scheduled to meet with Echeverria. The Mexican president has lent technical assistance to Gutierrez, county judge of Zavala County, in making Crystal City a showplace for the Mexican-American political party.

While in the city Echeverria also may be the target of a Chicano activist protesting prison conditions in Mexico.

Hanoi List Fine,
Full Report the Aim

PARIS — Washington is grateful for a list of 12 American fliers received from Hanoi, who said the fliers were killed during the Vietnam War. But the United States says it has no intention of normalizing relations with Vietnam until Hanoi accounts for all the 795 missing U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia.

A press statement accompanying the list expressed Hanoi's desire to restart at the earliest possible date the stalled talks on U.S. aid to war-damaged Vietnam. The 12-man list gave the men's name, rank, branch of service and serial number, but no details on when, where or how they died.

Former Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas suffered a fractured hip and underwent an operation on Monday, according to a spokesman at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington.

461 Lost Lives
During the Holiday

CHICAGO — The National Safety Council estimated there would be 360 to 460 traffic deaths during the 78-hour Labor Day weekend and the count early this morning showed the experts' expectations were exceeded by one — there were 461 deaths reported so far in traffic mishaps.

California reported 43 traffic deaths, Texas 41, Illinois and Ohio 23 each, Michigan 19 and New York and Pennsylvania 18 each. Traffic fatality-free holiday weekends were reported in Alaska, Vermont, North Dakota and the District of Columbia. The boost in traffic deaths was attributed to increased driving.

War Ace Does It,
But Off the Target

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. — "I was very tired," Japanese World War II flying ace Shoji Kawamoto, 51, said on stepping out of his single-engine Comanche 260 plane at a small northern California airfield. His destination was Seattle, Wash., but he landed 400 miles off target after becoming the first pilot to complete a solo nonstop flight across the Pacific in a single-engine aircraft.

"I did it for the Bicentennial spirit," said Kawamoto, who now lives in the United States. He told reporters in Tokyo he conceived the idea of flying over the Pacific in order to console the souls of Japanese and Allied troops killed during the war. (More on Page 14.)

'Just Another Day Out of Work'

By SID LEAVITT
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — "Labor Day to the unemployed means just another day out of work."

Joseph M. Roglieri, president of the Ulster County Building Trades Council, was expressing an apt Labor Day sentiment: Of the thousands of tradesmen covered by his group, nearly two out of three Monday had no jobs to stay home from.

Of the council's 1,500 Kingston members, nearly 10 per cent are now on welfare. Another 50 to 60 per cent, while not yet on welfare, nevertheless are unemployed, Roglieri told the Freeman in a Labor Day interview.

"You know, April to October used to be our productive period. Not just 100 per cent employment — 150 per cent employment where outside labor had to come in and help," he said.

"But for several years now, there have been no major projects going on in Kingston and the Ulster County area . . . No matter what they say about the (Kingston) north-south arterial, the (Benedictine) hospital job, it's still just talk."

Hardest hit among area trades, Roglieri said, are the bricklayers and laborers. Some laborers, he said, have been out of work for three years, about the time that area construction has been nosediving.

Roglieri, 45, a roofer by trade, has himself been unemployed from time to time over the years — "but the longest was maybe four or five months, nothing like this nine, ten months or more that most of these guys have been out."

Union work rosters are set up on a rotation basis — longest on the list without work, first to be called. But lists in some trades have stretched to include nearly the entire union, "and some of the lists haven't rotated once."

Most unions don't encourage taking jobs outside the trade: "A man is supposed to be on call at all times. If I can't get the man at the top of the list, I call the next one," Roglieri said.

"A man may miss a four- or five-month job because he went to work picking apples for two weeks."

For most tradesmen, the union is the source of fringe benefits that many other professions receive from their companies — insurance, sick leave, vacations and retirement.

"On a union job, you get paid only for the hours you work. And when the contractor is done with you, he doesn't keep you around to pick up paper. He sends you back to the union hall to look for another job."

Most unions don't have large forced-saving programs because most union laborers don't make the large amounts ascribed to them by rumor, Roglieri said, citing $9,000 to $10,000 a year as the average union wage.

Unless he has forced himself to save and unless he has a wife with a good job, the unemployed worker, union or otherwise, can find Labor Day a difficult holiday to bear, Roglieri said.

"The children go back to school with no new clothes, and you wonder where the food is coming from."

Council Rejects Pyrolysis as Landfill Substitute New Waste Process Too Costly for UC

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman staff

KINGSTON — The county's Environmental Management Council has put what appears to be the final lid on arguments for Ulster's participation in a regional pyrolysis resource recovery system.

In an evaluation of the proposed project sent to the public health committee of the legislature, Donald C. Bruyn, chairman of the council, concludes that the "costs and results of the PURON

The report further recommends that the legislature proceed with plans for a solid waste management plant that is better designed to meet the needs and revenues of county communities.

Pyrolysis is a relatively new process of converting solid waste into re-usable energy by trapping escaping gases from the processing of wastes in an oxygen free environment.

During the past year the county has been looking into the possibility of joining a regional co-operative that would build and maintain a pyrolysis plant in Dutchess county.

The main argument against the proposal had been that much of the solid waste would have to be trucked as far as 35 miles across the river to the Dutchess plant.

The Environmental Management Council has added the drawbacks of

Boiceville Bridge Work Progresses

Tom Barnes of Kingston soaks up the late summer sun as he works on the Five Arches Bridge at Boiceville. Concrete was poured recently and will be cured for about a month, when guard rails will be installed. The deck on the other side of the railing was poured last fall and now carries one-way Route 28A traffic over the Esopus Creek.

Defecting Soviet Pilot Will Fly to U.S.

TOKYO (UPI) — A Soviet air force officer who defected and landed his top secret MIG25 Foxbat fighter plane in Japan will be flown to the United States Wednesday, the Tokyo Metropolitan Police Agency announced today.

1st. Lt. Viktor Ivanovich Belenko, 29, was whisked secretly to Tokyo Tuesday in a Japanese military transport aircraft, escorted by fighter planes of Japan's Air Self Defense Force.

Police said he was in a secret hideout in the Tokyo area awaiting a flight to the United States.

Belenko, who outwitted Japan's radar screens to land his plane at Hakodate City 500 miles north of Tokyo, won permission earlier in the day to seek political asylum in the United States.

(In Paris, U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters he believed the United States would grant asylum to the defecting pilot.)

The Japanese government also refused a Soviet request to immediately return the MIG25, considered to be the world's most advanced aircraft.

The defector and his stolen plane.

Foreign Minister Kiichi Miyazawa said the Japanese government approved the pilot's request from a "humanitarian standpoint."

The Foreign Ministry said one of its officials interviewed the pilot, identified as Viktor Ivanovich Belenko, 29, and confirmed he made the decision voluntarily.

The Japanese and American governments were in consultation on his possible flight to the United States.

Miyazawa said no final decision had been made on whether asylum would be granted because Washington was believed to be taking "various circumstances into consideration."

Moscow, which also demanded the return of the pilot, said it wanted one of its diplomats to interview Belenko.

The request was denied on grounds the pilot did not want to see his countryman and had sought asylum voluntarily.

MARKET BASKET City Food Prices Drop

KINGSTON — Shopping for a family of four in Kingston cost 1.7 per cent less for the week ending September 4 than for the previous week and was from 2 to 6 per cent cheaper than shopping anywhere else in the county, according to reports from the Ulster County Consumer Information Service.

A 41-item market basket cost $65.60 for the week, compared to a $66.65 total during the last week of August.

The market basket index is based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's moderate cost family food plan and includes various foods which should be consumed in order to provide a nutritious diet.

The Wawarsing-Ellenville market basket was 2 per cent more expensive than Kingston, totaling $66.82, followed by New Paltz-Rosendale-Port Ewen at $67.31 (2.8 per cent higher) and Woodstock-Saugerties at $66.55 (4.7 per cent higher).

The Marlboro-Lloyd district remained the most expensive place to shop for food in the county, ringing in at $69.42 (6 per cent higher than Kingston).

On an overall county-wide basis, the market basket cost for the week ending September 4 was $67.52, a decline of .3 per cent over the previous period.

Supermarket sales on meats and fish as well as generally reduced prices for fresh produce were credited for the total decline.

The lone area showing an increase in costs was dairy products, with cheese up about 11 per cent and milk about 5 per cent.

Congress Is Taking Power Over Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — During the next two weeks Congress will complete a revolution it launched two years ago, in which it took over the planning of the federal budget from the president.

In the next few days, each house of Congress will vote on its version of the budget for fiscal year 1977, which begins Oct. 1.

Differences will be negotiated by a House-Senate conference committee. Then, by the close of business Sept. 15, Congress will give final approval to a budget that sets legally binding limits on total spending, revenues and the deficit for that year.

It will include "assumptions" — not legally binding — on how spending will be broken down among categories such as national defense, agriculture and health.

The House and Senate budget committees have come up with almost the same recommended figures: House: $362.5 billion revenues, $413.2 billion outlays, $50.7 billion deficit. Senate: $362.0 billion revenues, $412.8 billion outlays, $50.8 billion deficit.

Both sets of figures are very close to those Congress set as targets in May, and no major changes are expected to be made in them on the House and Senate floors.

They are about $19 billion higher in spending than the 1977 budget President Ford proposed to Congress in January, and $14 billion higher than Ford's budget proposal as revised at midyear.

They reject $10 billion in new individual and business tax cuts Ford had proposed. The congressional assumptions behind the figures give the President nearly all he requested for defense, more than he asked in jobs, education, health and other domestic programs.

Democratic leaders in Congress claim the congressional budget figures will result in a million more jobs for Americans in 1977 than Ford's budget. Republicans say that is an exaggeration. They contend the congressional budget threatens to ignite inflation, impede economic re-

Utility Is Contradicting Itself, Hinchey Charges

KINGSTON — There is a "discrepancy" in public statements by two Central Hudson officials regarding the company's need for a rate increase, Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey charged today.

Hinchey, among others, has been granted the status of an intervenor at the upcoming PSC hearings on the increase and said he will bring the matter before the commission.

Hinchey quotes a recent statement by Central Hudson's vice president of community affairs, William Kling, in which Kling states, "What Mr. Hinchey fails to comprehend is that Central Hudson is seeking higher rates to cover the cost of facilities already built, not those to be built in the future." This, according to Hinchey, does not square with testimony given July 8 at the PSC hearings by L. Wallace Cross, Central Hudson's vice president and comptroller, when a PSC examiner asked for a summary of the reason for the company's request for higher prices. Cross replied, "The company presently estimates that it must raise $180 million of new capital during the next five years (1976-1980) in order to finance its construction program."

"The same answer was given in Central Hudson's general letter to all its customers on June 25 announcing the rate increase, signed by the president and chairman of the board: 'In order to construct new facilities and replace old we must obtain additional amounts of capital through the sale of stocks and bonds,'" Hinchey said.

Meanwhile, with the PSC hearing on the increase scheduled to resume next Tuesday, the Assemblyman and at least two Ulster County consumer groups are preparing presentations against the rate increase.

Under the rules governing PSC hearings, Hinchey, the Concerned Consumers and the Irate Consumers have all applied for and received intervenor status. That will permit them to question the Central Hudson representatives who appear. Hinchey and the consumers will reportedly be arguing that at present the utility already has too much idle capacity, which they estimate at between 60 per cent and 70 per cent, and further, that the growth rate of electricity use is considerably less than what Central Hudson estimates.

"We intend to demonstrate that Central Hudson's own figures suggest that no new facilities need be built for at least a decade," said Hinchey.

According to the PSC, Administrative Law Judge Vincent P. Furlong will open the hearing at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 14, in the Dutchess County Office Building, Poughkeepsie.

Meyer

Mrs. Evelyn A. Meyer, 65, of 141 Mountain Rest Road, New Paltz, died at the New Paltz Nursing Home Saturday following a long illness. She was an artist-craftsman and had several one-man shows in New York City, Philadelphia, New Jersey, and throughout New York State. She was a member of the Marbletown Artists Association, the New Paltz Artists Association, and the American Association of Craftsmen-Weavers Guild. She was also a member of the Redeemed Lutheran Church. Born in Puerto Rico, March 13, 1911, she was the daughter of Earle C. and Amalea Ziffre Marshall. She was married to John F. Meyer, Jr., who survives. Also surviving are: three daughters: Mrs. Manon Lane of Satellite Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Marcia Flakoll; Pleasant Hill, Calif.; Mrs. Margot Todd, Los Angeles, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Millicent Cunningham, Shreveport, La.; six grandchildren, and one great-grandchild. A memorial service will be announced. Arrangements are under the direction of Pine Funeral Home Inc., 124 Main Street, New Paltz.

Folts

Mrs. Claire E. Folts, 70, of Oakridge Road, Ellenville, died Sunday at the Community General Hospital in Liberty. Born in Lackawack on Sept. 18, 1905, the daughter of the late William and Glennie Eck Goesslin. She was a lifelong resident of the Ellenville area. She was married on Aug. 25, 1946, to the late James Folts. Surviving are: a daughter, Mrs. Ella Spence of New Jersey; four grandchildren and six great-grandchildren; an aunt, a great-aunt; cousins, and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Donald H. Bury Funeral Home Inc., 21 Canal Street, Ellenville, with the Rev. Arthur S. Marshall officiating. Burial will be in the Faintekill Cemetery in Ellenville. Friends may call today 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Myers

William Myers, 25, of Binghamton, died Saturday at the Wilson Memorial Hospital, Johnson City. Born Sept. 25, 1950, in Margaretville, he was the son of the late William and Mary Moran Myers. He has lived in Binghamton for the past four and a half years where he was employed by the City of Binghamton. Surviving are: his widow, the former Susan Marks; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Effie Moran of Fleischmanns; and five brothers: Frederick and Thomas, both of Binghamton; Patrick, of Fleischmanns; Michael, of the U.S. Marine Corps; and Andrew, of Roxbury. Funeral services were held today at 11 a.m. at the E.B. Gormley Funeral Home, Main Street, Phoenix, with burial at the Cloveville Cemetery.

Beware The Lawn Slither

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI) — Froggy's not gone a-courting this summer, he's been out looking for a watering hole and the sprinkled lawns of the Delmarva Peninsula have been his target.

But slithering behind have come unwanted suitors from the reptile world — Frogs — natural predators, the snakes. "One usually follows the other," said Derby Walker, an agriculture adviser for nearby Sussex County, Del. "The toads come close to houses because the lawns are irrigated or a hose leaks under the house," he said. "The snakes follow to eat the toads and cool off."

Hogsnose snakes, which Walker describes as aggressive creatures that coil up and look vicious, are the most frequent lawn visitors. "They are just generally trying to act like a tough customer," he said. "If that doesn't work, they roll over and play dead."

Other unwanted visitors include the black field vipers, which measure up to three feet in length, and black snakes, which get up to five feet. Walker says all are harmless.

In an effort to combat the pests, residents are buying a record amount of sulfur, a chemical usually applied to control fungus and insects.

Two-Way Squeeze

A family must earn over $12,000 a year today to maintain the same standard of living as a 1970 family making $8,728, according to The Conference Board. The culprits: inflation and higher income and social security taxes. Rising prices siphoned off $2,628 and additional Federal income and social security taxes, $708.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my darling wife, Anita V. Fichtner, who passed away Sept. 6, 1974. In the graveyard softly sleeping Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one I loved so dearly Whom, alas, I could not save. You bade me here no last farewell, You said goodbye to none, Your weary heart had ceased to beat, Before I knew you'd gone, And when the evening shadows fall, And I am all alone, In my heart there comes a longing Oh, that you could come back home. You shall never be forgotten From my memory ne'er shall fade, Sweetest thoughts will always linger Round the grave where you are laid. Your loving husband, George

MEMORIAM

In memory of Margaret Fuscardo on her 4th Anniversary in heaven. Miss Fuscardo, so precious and true. One for how often we still think of you. Tis for the treasures we hold deep in our heart. H-is for the heartache, since we've been apart; E-is for the everlasting emptiness, that no one can see; R-is for rest in heaven, where God wants you to be. Together they spell Mother Whom God called home on Sept. seven, To share with her, his home in heaven. Daughters, Doris & Anita & Families.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our uncle, Ernest J. Dosharn, who passed away, September 7, 1975. Life is never over. You are never gone. There is always something lovely To keep your memory on. Although our hearts are saddened That you have gone away, You will never be forgotten With the passing of each day. Sadly Missed. Nieces, Nancy & Anne & Families

The Geese and Duck Found True Identity

SOUTH BAY, N.Y. (UPI) — Loren Leggett has three geese and a duck who grew up thinking they were just ugly chickens.

It all began when a goose tried to egg-sit and one of Leggett's hens adopted the unhatched eggs. "The hen just sat on them and took over," he said. "Later the hen found an abandoned duck egg and sat on that too."

Leggett's daughter, Mrs. Pat Koch, said the mother goose tried to reclaim her family

after the eggs hatched but a rooster protected them.

Opponent Gets Polite Answers

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Somewhere in the rules of political warfare it probably says a candidate should know who his opponents are. And if there is such a rule, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., has broken it.

While campaigning through a crowd Monday at the Menger Hotel, Bentsen offered a warm greeting to Pedro Vasquez and at a news conference later answered one of Vasquez's questions.

Vasquez asked Bentsen if he supported deportation of illegal aliens.

"I certainly do," Bentsen replied, adding that he had supported giving additional funds to immigration authorities for controlling the illegal alien situation.

Vasquez is a member of the Socialist Workers Party, opposing deportation, and his name will be listed beside Bentsen's on the November ballot.

After the news conference Bentsen was surprised when told his political opponent had been there.

I should hasten to say that Commoner is not - repeat, not an advocate of Communism. He has certainly demonstrated the obvious: that the use/waste of the sun's energy stored in fuels or still being poured on us across space is a political problem. It has to do with how mankind chooses to live with itself. His answer (to me) is not quite as thoroughly thought out as his scientist's case for our misusing our resources. It is a call for a new and better system than either Western Capitalism or the Russian's corruption of Marx's idealism. He sees the first step to be the articulation of the problem - and then our need to debate it. But he slips a little too lightly - for me, again over the problem of disseminating the truths that add up to the problem: i.e. the education of the peoples of the world who do not yet see what is so obvious to him and to most other thinking humans.

Marta Casals Istomin

Casal's Widow Deeply Dedicated

By MARIAN CHRISTY

NEW YORK—Puerto Rican beauty Marta Casals Istomin, widow of master cellist Pablo Casals, is reminiscing about the man she married when she was 22 and he was 82. "Now when I see aged people, I say to myself: Oh, my God, Casals was of that age. But he wasn't that age. Not really."

It's an open secret that Marta, an excellent cellist in her own right and once Casals' star pupil, worshipped him from the time she was 16 when they met at a music festival in Prades, France.

"Casals," as she calls him, "was ageless. He had the charisma of a young outlook coupled with genuine wisdom born of maturity. It was one of the dimensions that made him extraordinary. Everybody who knew him fell in love with him. I happened to be one of those people. I know our marriage surprised a lot of people."

Diminutive Marta, now a 39-year-old elegant with a shock of black hair and brown eyes that smile, last year married Casals' best friend, concert pianist Eugene Istomin, 49, a child prodigy who had never been married before. "I'm a middle-aged Romeo," says Istomin.

Casals and Istomin knew each other for 25 years. In fact, "my son" was how Casals always referred to Istomin. "They had a profound love for each other," says Marta about the two men in her life.

About being Istomin's glowing bride and moving into the Manhattan penthouse that once belonged to designer Jerry Silverman. "Istomin is my contemporary," says Marta. "It's possible to do things that could not be expected of Casals. Our life is much, much more active. For example, Eugene and I are able to take great, long walks together."

When Casals died in October of 1973, he was 97.

"I was totally shattered by his death although I knew the years were against him. When he died, I was convinced I would never find anyone else. After all, I had lived with one of the world's greatest musicians. I looked upon that experience as incomparable. I thought no one could possibly measure up."

After Casals, on self-imposed exile from his native Spain, was buried in a San Juan churchyard, Marta, who wore black mourning clothes for one year, struggled to come to grips with the reality of widowhood.

"I was emotionally devastated," she says. "I had many friends but I had never felt so completely alone. There was a deep emptiness that cannot be explained in words. At first, the people in our closest circle of friends called regularly. Then, as the year wore on, there were long lapses between the calls."

Apparently Istomin, whom Marta describes as a "likeable" man, was unwaveringly solicitous.

"He was uncompromising about my sense of well being," says Marta. That, she says, and a common love for Casals eventually brought them together.

"Slowly, slowly that closeness began to transfer itself to me," she continues about the second chapter of her love story.

"Suddenly I realized that something had happened. I had, indeed, fallen in love. The spark was ignited again."

"I am a person of total dedication," she says. "I was totally dedicated to Casals. Now I'm totally dedicated to Istomin. Nothing is more important than the complete focus on the man in my life. My own achievements must take second place."

Marta claims she is a liberated woman who has defined her objectives freely. "My fulfillment comes from being supportive rather than being an achiever," she says. "Some women need to excel professionally. I need to excel as a woman."

She says she has found the formula of bliss with both men. "What love breaks down to," she says, "is a deep, intractable affection that encompasses and permeates everything. You have to have understanding and respect. There must be communion of ideals and goals. These add up to the ultimate joy of a happy union."

Upcoming Rehearsal Marks Beginning Of Mendelssohn Club's 74th Season

KINGSTON—Mendelssohn Club of Kingston holds its first rehearsal for the fall concert series Monday, Sept. 13, at St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Ave. The rehearsal signals the beginning of the 74th season for the glee club.

After 10 weekly rehearsals the club will begin a series of concerts in and around the Kingston area, concluding with the annual Fall Music Festival. This festival provides recognition for outstanding young artists of the area who perform as guest soloists with the glee club.

The Mendelssohn Club, traditionally an all-male chorus, broke its 73-year old tradition last spring by enlisting more than 100 women for a special Bicentennial program of music for mixed voices. A repeat of the mixed choir with a different type of music is being considered for next spring in honor of Kingston's own Bicentennial.

"Singing with the Mendelssohn Club, as with any good choral group, can be a very rewarding experience," says William Lanier, president. "The fellowship and camaraderie, the

pure joy of making music, of blending voices to convey a great variety of moods and emotions—all provide a relaxing change of pace from hectic day-to-day affairs."

"Besides all that," Lanier notes, "singing is great exercise! Many of the same muscles used in jogging and swimming get a good workout during those weekly rehearsal sessions...above all else, the ability to sing is a God-given gift and, as such, one to be shared. An active choral group provides that opportunity." The fall program consists of spirituals, folk songs, sea chanteys, hymns, Christmas carols, show tunes and novelties.

Any male singer with college glee club, high school or church choir experience is welcome. Registration is between 7:30 and 8 p.m. next Monday night. Information regarding membership may be obtained from Lanier or by writing to the Mendelssohn Club, CPO Box 172, Kingston.

Quilting Class to Start

KINGSTON—Britts will offer two classes in beginning quilting, Tuesday, Sept. 14, from 10 a.m. to noon and Friday, Sept. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m.

All aspects of quilting will be taught from stitching, estimating yardage, diagramming quilts, drafting templates, piecing, applique, crazy quilt techniques, setting the quilt top and finishing a quilt. Although plans for a quilt are the ultimate goal of the course, a varied number of projects will be offered to be completed in time for Christmas gift giving.

Quilting is a new experience for many women in the area and most of them express surprise and delight in the new friendships formed and the spirit of "community" that develops.

Mrs. Ruth Culver, who was coordinator for the Ulster County Bicentennial Quilt, will again be instructor for this course. For a week in August, Mrs. Culver attended the Finger Lakes Bicentennial Quilt exhibit at Ithaca, which included lectures and workshops given by Beth and Jeffery Gutcheon, authors of "The Perfect Patchwork Primer" and Jean Ray Laury, who has designed many quilts for Family Circle Magazine and is author of "Quilts and Coverlets."

Students should bring scissors, sewing equipment, pencil, ruler, medium weight sandpaper and small pieces of material to the first class.

Indonesia's Delegate to UN Will Speak Here at BPW Meeting

KINGSTON—Indonesia's delegate to the United Nations Social Development Division, Mrs. T. Memet Tanumidjaja, will be the guest speaker for the opening dinner-meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Tuesday, Sept. 14, in The Colonnade Restaurant. Mrs. Memet will be coming to the local meeting from a conference in Geneva, Switzerland.

A multi-talented person who holds an eminent position in UNICEF, she has had a long and successful career. In her sphere of activities, she has been a teacher, professional social worker, deputy minister and special adviser to the Ministry of Social Affairs in Indonesia. She has served as a member of Parliament in Indonesia representing women as a functional group.

The guest speaker will discuss her role at the UN as well as her views on how American women can contribute their valuable expertise toward equality, development and peace on which the General Assembly has placed special emphasis during the International Women's Decade, 1975-1985. She believes women should live lives of true equality with men but she does not advocate a reversal of the roles of men and women nor an abandonment of the traditional roles of women.

Members are asked to invite guests to this meeting. Interested persons in the community who wish to attend should contact any member of the committee: Ruth Kuriger, 8 Alcazar Ave., Collette Sonnenberg, 75 Miller's Lane, Mela Carmody, Grand Street and Justine Englander, 68 Plymouth Ave., Kingston; Dorothy A. Narel, Mosher Place, Lorraine Shultis, John Street, West Hurley.

There will be limited seating. The evening is not limited to women only. Dinner will be served at 7 p.m.

Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad Holds Surprise Mock Disaster

KERHONKSON—Emergency Care Services, nationally, statewide and locally, are placing more and more emphasis on teamwork by and between all services connected with emergency situations. To this end, the Kerhonkson-Accord First Aid Squad ran a totally "surprise" mock disaster recently in the parking lot next to the squad building.

This was to have been a regularly scheduled training meeting for all squad members. But, with the aid of seven members of the squad-sponsored Explorer Post No. 122, a mock disaster was dispatched at 7:12 — approximately 20 minutes prior to the regular meeting time — with the first response to the scene at 7:16.

Working with a committee of three, Lee Previll had managed to organize the event without a leak to the membership.

An accident scene with a wrecked car involving seven

"victims" was created before the call was dispatched. Traffic to the scene was controlled by Larry VanGasbeck. This kept lanes open to the area for ambulances. As personnel arrived, Gary Miller and Ms. Previll showed the ambulance crews where victims were located. Doris Robbins was in charge of the make-up of victims using Simuloids, representing the different kinds of wounds, plenty of blood, torn clothing, state of shock and other conditions always present at the scene of violent traffic accidents.

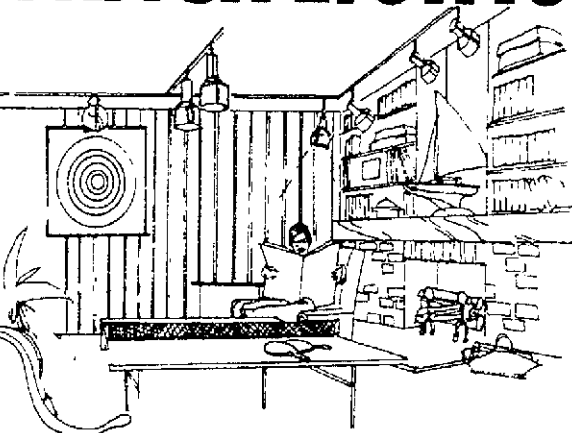

Critics were on the spot to check on the first aid given, transportation of victims and the Emergency Room area of the hospital which was located inside the building. Critics at the scene were Joe Dunleavy and Augusta Kopp. Esther Yeager made a general survey of the scene, gave instructions to arriving personnel as to the location of additional supplies and then joined Miller, Robbins and Previll at the Emergency Room as critics on the condition of victims as they arrived at the hospital.

DEAR ABBY

Eight-Year-Old Daughter Worried About Her Mother's Smoking Habits

DEAR ABBY: I am 8 years old and my name is Shelley Seibel. My Mom is 27 years old and the reason I am writing to you is because my Mom smokes constantly.

Abby, please give me some suggestions as to how I can get her to quit smoking. I love my Mom and don't want her to die from lung cancer or heart failure at the age of 30. —WORRYING IN EVANS CITY, PA.

DEAR SHELLEY: What a beautiful daughter you are for being so worried about your Mom's health that you would write to me!

People who smoke "constantly" would like to quit, but they lack the strength. Perhaps when your Mom sees this and realizes how much you love her, it will motivate her to quit. I hope so.

Write to me again, Shelley, and let me know if my suggestion has helped I care.

DEAR ABBY: Mac and I have been married for three years and we went together for two years before that. He's a terrific husband in every way but something has come up lately that bothers me.

Mac plays softball three times a week. I always enjoyed going to the park to watch him play, but now that we have a baby I can't go so often.

One night Mac said, "I wish you wouldn't come to so many games. You make me nervous."

He says he plays lousy when I'm there. Abby, I've been watching him for years and he never played lousy, and I never made him nervous before.

I got to thinking that another guy on his team tells his wife to stay home because she makes him nervous, but everybody knows he likes to flirt with other girls, and if his wife's around, it cramps his style.

One of my friends said, "Maybe Mac just wants a night out with the boys." Another one said, "I'll bet he just wants to fool around." What do you think? —MAC'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Since Mac has to contend with an umpire during the game, he doesn't need another "ump" when it's over. His overall batting average as a husband is what counts.

Some "boys" like to mourn their defeats and celebrate their victories sans wives occasionally, so don't be too possessive or suspicious.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college graduate, and I only graduated from high school.

My problem is the way he is always putting me down in front of people calling me "dummy" and "stupid."

I worked in a factory so he could finish college. I have considered taking some courses at the local college, but if I start now it will take me six years to get a degree and in six years I will

be 38! —PUT DOWN

DEAR PUT: And how old will you be in six years if you DON'T go to college?

Start now!

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal

Pilgrimage Slated To Auriesville Shrine

KINGSTON—William J. O'Leary, grand knight of Kingston Council 275 Knights of Columbus, announces the annual pilgrimage to Auriesville Shrine Sunday, Sept. 19. The bus will leave the 4 or C Building, 389 Broadway, at 10 a.m. and return at 5 p.m.

Lunch will be served on the bus on the way home. This is one of the annual outstanding events sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

Joseph F. Saccoman, chairman of Catholic Activities and Mrs. Edward (Loretta) Ahl, fraternal chairman of the Columbians, are co-chairmen. Members of the committee are Frank Castiglione, John Rice, Joseph Bruno, Edward Ahl, Edward Hanley, Fred Bruno, Thomas Davis and Joseph Di Peri.

The procession on the Way of the Cross will be led by the Fourth Degree Honor Guard, followed by the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Every one is invited.

The Impact of the 'Bachelor Survival' Course

About 10 years ago, a couple of boys were looking for a "snap course." They infiltrated a home ec. class.

It became so popular throughout the country special classes were formed and named "Bachelor Survival." In the past three years, the male enrollment has not only doubled, but in some high schools the males outnumber the females at the stoves.

What impact has this new breed had on our life styles? I'll tell you what impact it's had. This country is producing (at an astronomical rate) what women who live in the kitchen refer to as "Domestic Jocks."

They're the Super Stars of the souffles . . . the dazzlers of the microwaves . . . the weekend headliners at the outdoor grills.

But they're stars. They don't do pans, pots, stoves or ovens. They don't touch charcoal, dripping beaters, dirty blenders or skillets that have to be soaked. When they cook, it's first class all the way — fresh garlic, fresh lemons, fresh parsley and fresh mushrooms.

My husband never cooks out that I don't feel like I am assisting a surgeon at a double valve by-pass.

"Tongs! Quick! The tongs," he commands. (I slap them professionally in his hands.)

Next, "The pepper mill. Wipe."

I press a dishtowel to his forehead.

"Not the perspiration, you turkey — the sauce from my cute apron."

After hours of intense concentration, the Domestic Jock speaks. "Are the plates and forks for the salad chilled? Good. The potatoes done? The vegetables cooked just to the peak of flavor? Good. You sprayed for bugs? Fine. Because we are ready to eat . . . NOW!"

No warning. No time to socialize. No second drink. Just like that. When he says the steaks are done, we are expected to have our forks poised for the first bite.

The other night he wandered into the kitchen, peeled off his asbestos mittens and threw them into the clothes hamper. "Well, I pulled another one through,"

he said. I looked at the kitchen sink, piled high with dirty pots, pans and dishes, the countertop with melted butter, dirty dishes, leftover rolls and wilted salad. The grill was corroded with barbecue sauce.

"Next weekend I think I'll do my kabob number on the grill."

About Women

Anne Murray

Diana Ross

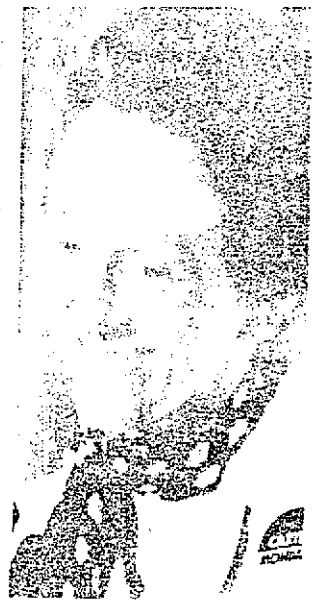

Francoise Giroud

TORONTO: Husky-voiced singer Anne Murray, 30, gave birth to a seven-pound boy here. It is the first child for the Canadian singer who skyrocketed to fame with her recording of "Snowbird." . . . HOLLYWOOD: Singing star Diana Ross and her husband, Bob Silberman, tried a reconciliation recently in an effort to save their faltering marriage for the sake of their three little girls. However, things have not worked out and divorce proceedings are underway. . . . PARIS: Premier Raymond Barre announced he will soon name a "delegate for women's condition" to oversee the application of a five-year plan designed to insure full equality of the sexes in France. Francoise Giroud, a journalist, now a deputy minister for culture, may be Barre's choice. Back in 1974, following his election, President Valery Giscard d'Estaing named Francoise to his cabinet and put her in charge of the condition of women. She was moved to her present post in a recent cabinet shuffle when the ministry for women was abolished.

The Minneapolis Tribune reported that in 1969 Joan Mondale, wife of the Democratic vice presidential candidate, put her family on a diet to show people on welfare how to limit meals to 23 cents per person. She used hot dogs, rice, biscuit mix, tuna and spaghetti "but drew the line at grits." Her press secretary reports Mrs. Mondale "never said she didn't like them, she didn't know how to find them. Now she thinks she'll learn to like them." . . . Phyllis Diller's jokes were "too dirty" for many elderly people at a special "golden age" day at the Pacific National Exhibition in Vancouver. Special Registration Scheduled Sept. 7 at UCCC for Older Adults

STONE RIDGE—Ulster County Community College will hold special registration Tuesday, Sept. 7, for older adults, 60 years and older, who desire to audit Fall Semester credit courses without paying tuition. Registration will be held from 1:30 to 5 p.m. and 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Registrar's office in Vanderlyn Hall on the Stone Ridge campus. The only charge for taking these courses is a $1 insurance fee.

Older adults will receive distinctive ID cards which will provide for campus identification and allow them to use the library on the Stone Ridge campus.

Participating adults will not be examined or graded. They will not receive credit or be counted for state aid. The program is administered in a manner which will result in no additional expense to the taxpayers.

College officials feel this service to older adults will enable them to maintain their mental alertness and continue their active participation in community affairs.

The older adults will be able to audit credit courses offered at the Stone Ridge campus and the Life Long Learning Centers at Coleman High School, in Kingston; Ellenville High School and Saugerties High School.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Anxiety...That's What Ozark Calls It

By UPI

The way the Philadelphia Phillies played Labor Day, it appeared to some fans that the club had decided to take the day off.

The Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the faltering Phillies, 6-2 and 5-1, to move to within 5½ games of Philadelphia in the National League East. The Phillies had led by 16½ games just two weeks ago before their current slide started August 25—ironically the same date their infamous collapse in 1964 began when they blew a 6½-game lead in the last two weeks of the season.

The Phillies, who have now lost 10 of their last 11 games, made a total of four errors and had two wild pitches in the double defeat as Pittsburgh won for the 12th time in its last 13 games.

The two dressing rooms after the doubleheader were a study in contrasts. "It's fantastic," cried an enthusiastic Bill Robinson in the bubbling Pirate clubhouse.

"We gonna catch the Phillies," yelled a confident Frank Taveras.

"Usually when a team goes into a slump

it's two or three guys," said Larry Bowa, the Phillies' shortstop. "We've got seven or eight guys in a slump."

Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark remained optimistic despite his club's recent setbacks.

"I don't think there is such a word as 'tenseness' on this ball club. I guess it's anxiety, if it's anything," said Ozark. "I think we're going to come back, and I think we're going to win."

Even the two clubs plans for Tuesday, an off day, were revealing of each club's current emotional state.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh has decided to give the Pirates the day off while Ozark, who states publicly that he hasn't yet pushed the panic button, ordered the Phillies to take extra batting practice. The two clubs resume their series Wednesday night and conclude their season series in Philadelphia September 15 and 16.

Five different Pirates drove in a run in the opener to back the combined five hit pitching of Bruce Kison and Kent Tekulve. Every player in the starting lineup except catcher Duffy Dyer had at least one hit in the 12 hit attack.

In the nightcap, Larry Demery hurled a four hitter while the Pirates collected 10 hits off three different Philadelphia pitchers. Robinson, who had an RBI single in the first game, had a two run triple in the second game, while Richie Hebner, showing signs of breaking out of a season long slump, smashed a solo homer.

In other NL games, New York beat Chicago, 7-4, San Francisco nipped Atlanta 4-3, St. Louis beat Montreal 3-1 before losing 3-2, Cincinnati edged Houston 9-8 and Los Angeles defeated San Diego 4-1.

Giants 4, Braves 3

Gary Alexander singled home what

proved to be the winning run in the sixth inning to give San Francisco a victory over Atlanta. Jim Wynn hit his 15th homer for the Braves.

Cards 3-2, Expos 1-3

Earl Williams singled home the winning run with two out in the ninth inning to give Montreal its second game victory over St. Louis after the Cards won the opener behind Pete Falcone's four hit pitching.

Reds 9, Astros 8

Joe Morgan climaxed an eight run third inning with his second grand slam homer of the season to lead Cincinnati past Houston. Morgan's slam was the third of his career and 27th homer this season, a career high. He added a single to boost his league leading average to .341. Morgan now has 104 runs batted in and has scored 103 runs.

Dodgers 4, Padres 1

Don Sutton, closing in on a 20 victory season for the first time in an 11-year career, tossed a four hitter for his 18th win and Steve Garvey drove in a pair of runs to lead Los Angeles over 20-game winner Randy Jones and San Diego.

Kingman Regains Lead In National HR Race

CHICAGO (UPI) — Dave Kingman, who missed 35 games because of torn ligaments in his left thumb, regained the National League home run lead Monday when he blasted his 34th to lead the New York Mets to a 7-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Mets' slugger sustained the injury on July 18. He came off the disabled list Aug. 27 and since then has homered twice.

"I feel very close to where I was before the injury," said the six year veteran. "Occasionally the thumb will hurt, like when I swing and miss making contact."

His first-inning homer followed a walk to Billy Baldwin. Kingman just missed another homer when his shot in the fifth hit high off the centerfield wall for a run scoring double. He has six homers in seven games in Wrigley Field this season.

New York added two more runs in the second on consecutive singles by John Stearns, Bud Harrelson, Jerry Koosman, and Bruce Bozclair. The last two each drove in a run.

Steve Stone was the victim of Kingman's blast. Stone lasted just 1 1/3 innings and suffered his sixth loss in nine decisions.

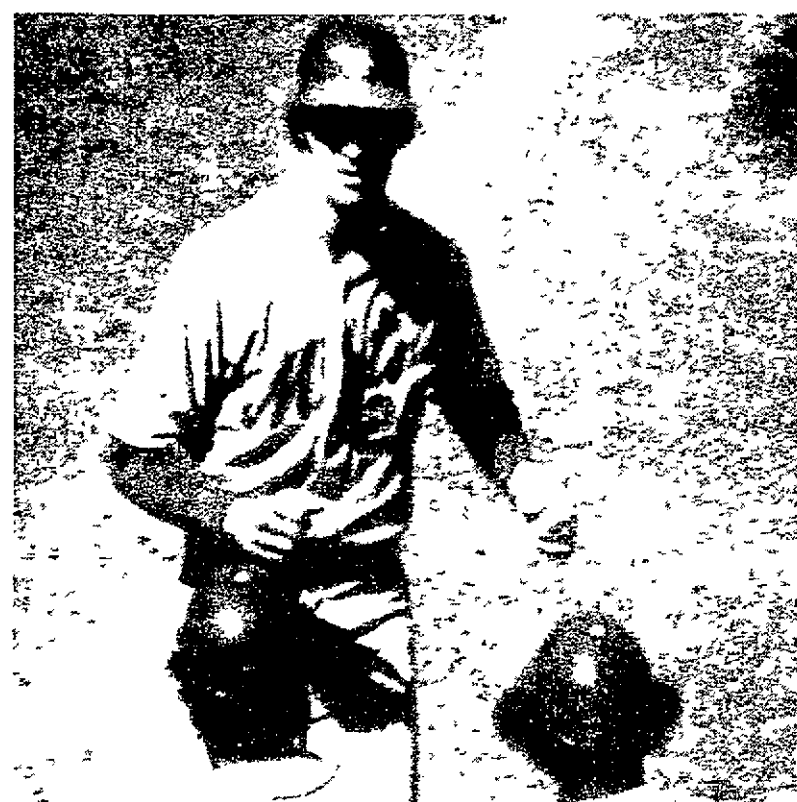

Koosman went the distance for his 18th victory against eight defeats. The southpaw struck out nine, walked five, and gave up nine hits.

Rick Monday greeted Koosman by slapping his first pitch into the leftfield bleachers for his 28th homer. Monday also had a two-run single in the sixth.

"My leg (slapping the right one) is the key to my pitching and I wasn't bringing it back," said Koosman. "I was struggling, not getting the ball down and they were hitting me."

"I told myself the leg was my trouble. It is 75 per cent of my pitching. If it's right everything falls into perspective. If it isn't, it throws everything off."

"I didn't feel good until the seventh inning. That's the longest I struggled in a long time."

A Sad Day for a Pair of Notre Dame Greats

By UPI

What though the odds be great on small, old Notre Dame will win over all.

Except on the final National Football League waiver list Monday when two of the greatest players in Notre Dame history were cut as the 28 teams pared down to the 43 and 49 player limits in preparation for the season opening weekend.

Terry Hanratty, the most prolific passer in Notre Dame history, was pink slipped by the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers and Jack Snow, who caught 60 passes in one year at South Bend, was waived by the Los Angeles Rams.

Hanratty and Snow were among a host of high priced veterans to get the ax as the 28 established teams reduced their rosters to 43 players. The two incoming expansion teams Tampa Bay and Seattle, trimmed down to 49 players.

Other established players sent into the unemployment ranks included running backs Ron Johnson, Duane Thomas, Dave Osborn and Robert Holmes, kickers

There were also a number of trades consummated. Dallas dealt Tom Fritsch, the highest scoring kicker in the league last year to San Diego, Detroit sent quarterback Bill Munson to Seattle and wide receiver Marlin Briscoe to New England. Green Bay shipped kicker Joe Danelo to the New York Giants, and San Francisco traded safety Tim Anderson to Buffalo. All players were dealt for draft picks.

Hanratty, 28, was Pittsburgh's No. 2 draft choice in 1969 after a brilliant three-year career at Notre Dame in which he set career records in pass attempts (550) and completions (304). In seven seasons with the Steelers, Hanratty played in 42 games and completed 159 of 417 passes for 24 touchdowns. But he lost out to rookie Mike Kruczek of Boston College as Terry Bradshaw's understudy.

Snow, 33, was one of the greatest receivers in Los Angeles history, ranking second to Elroy Hirsch in career yardage (6,012) and touchdown passes (45). At dable with the continued development of younger running backs Scott Laidlaw and Doug Dennison. Osborn was an 11 year garbage man runner for the Minnesota Vikings appearing in two Super Bowls.

Hunt, who missed an extra point and a 26 yard field goal as the Giants fell 14-13 to the San Diego Chargers in the preseason finale last Saturday, was made expendable when New York acquired Danelo, Gossett and Wersching became excess when the Chargers picked up Fritsch.

Morin, a 10 year veteran with Cleveland, lost his job to Oscar Roan last season, both Clark (by Los Angeles) and Athas (by Minnesota) were released in favor of younger players, and the mystery man Matuszak, the No. 1 choice of the 1973 draft, was cut by Washington, his fourth team in three years.

The acquisition of Munson, who asked to be traded when Detroit Coach Rick Forzano named Joe Reed as his No. 1 quarterback, gives Seattle an established QB to provide insurance should left hander Jim Zorn falter at the position.

Wheelin' and Dealin' At Grid Giants' Camp

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was as if Grand Central Station had taken a one day leave of absence from New York City to relocate 40 miles north in Pleasantville, the training base of the New York Giants.

Grand Central Station is what the New York camp resembled Monday with all the players shuffling in and out as the Giants scrambled to reach the 43-man player limit for the 1976 season which begins Sunday.

The Giants acquired two players in separate transactions, kicker Joe Danelo from Green Bay and guard Ron Mikolajczyk from Oakland, traded reserve tight end Jim Obradovich to San Francisco, waived seven players and placed one other, safety Robert Giblin, on the injured reserve list.

In getting down to the 43-man limit, the Giants waived veteran center Bob Hyland, kicker George Hunt, quarterback David Jaynes, wide receiver Craig Brantley, linebacker John Tate, defensive tackle Bill Windauer and offensive tackle Bill Ellenbogen.

The biggest face change on the New York team that finished 5-9 last season is on the offensive unit where there are eight newcomers, including five members of the defunct Memphis Southmen. Topping that list are fullback Larry Csonka and four of his Memphis linemen: center Ralph Hill, Mikolajczyk, tackle Mike Gibbons and tight end Gary Shirk.

Two of the five newcomers on the defensive team are also from the World Football League, defensive backs Bill Bryant (Birmingham) and Larry Mallory (Memphis). The other three additions to the defensive team are all rookies — defensive lineman Troy Archer and linebackers Harry Carson and Dan Lloyd.

The only draftee to crack the offensive team was running back Gordon Bell, who is likely to start in the New York backfield alongside Csonka. Free agent Jim Robinson survived the nine-week camp to earn one of four wide receiver spots and Norm Snead returns after a one year stop over in San Francisco to back up Craig Morton at quarterback.

But the biggest addition is Danelo, the regular kicker for Green Bay last season while Chester Marcol sat on the sidelines recovering from a knee injury.

The troubled New York Jets lopped the final six players off their roster to reach the 43 man limit Monday and began preparations for this week's season opener against the Cleveland Browns.

The Jets, who capped a 1-5 preseason slate by suffering a 41-6 humiliation at the hands of the Pittsburgh Steelers last weekend, took their biggest gamble by cutting second year man J.J. Jones, thus leaving only two quarterbacks on the roster.

One of those quarterbacks is pro football's top active drawing card, Joe Namath, who has had a history of knee problems since the Jets won the 1968 Super Bowl. Namath, who has had four knee operations, has remained injury free in the last two seasons but last year was his worst as a pro as he completed just 482 per cent of his passes and tossed 28 interceptions.

The only other quarterback is No. 1 draft pick Richard Todd, a durable sort still learning the art of pocket passing after a brilliant career as a running QB under Bear Bryant at Alabama.

Also waived were tackle Gordie Browne, the No. 2 draft pick in 1974, tight end Willie Brister, a third year man from Southern U., wide receiver James Scott, who was on injured reserve last year, defensive end Don Ratliff, a second year man from Maryland who was with the Philadelphia Eagles last year, and rookie linebacker Mike Lemon of Kansas.

Two other players were placed on injured reserve: safety Ken Schroy, a rookie from Maryland who suffered a broken ankle in the exhibition against Pittsburgh last Saturday, and defensive end Dave Wasick of San Jose State.

A Little Convincing Aids Nettles' Bid for a Crown

NEW YORK (UPI) — Graig Nettles, with a loud assist from manager Billy Martin, took over the American League home run lead Monday night in leading the New York Yankees to a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Nettles hit his 25th homer in the fifth inning but it took all of Martin's persuasive powers to convince the umpires of it.

With two Yankees on base, Nettles slammed a Tom Murphy pitch over the right centerfield fence, where it struck a wall about 20 feet behind the fence and bounced back onto the field. The Red Sox put the ball back in play with the approval of second base umpire Greg Kosc and Nettles was stopped at second.

"I saw it go out of sight and I knew it was over the wall so I figured I might as well argue," Nettles said.

Martin, who rarely worries about whether he should or shouldn't get into an argument, joined the discussion and got first base umpire Joe Brinkman to concur the ball had gone over the fence.

"I knew when I was talking with him (Brinkman) that he was going to change his mind," said Martin, who is not always so successful. "Sometimes I just get that feeling."

Asked if he ever had dreamed of one day winning the home run title—he leads Sal Bando and Lee May by one—Nettles said, "I've thought about it, but I've never come close though."

The Yankees' victory increased their lead in the A.L. East to 11½ games over second-place Baltimore.

Newly acquired Cesar Tovar drove in two New York runs with a bases loaded double and Mickey Rivers brought home another with an infield out in the first inning.

The Red Sox scored twice in the seventh off winner Doyle Alexander on singles by Carl Yastrzemski, Carlton Fisk and Jim Rice and an error by Rivers. They added three more in the eighth on Rick Burleson's homer and Cecil Cooper's two run double. A leaping deflection by Lou Pinella in right field prevented Cooper's hit from going over the fence for a game tying home run.

Rangers 5, Royals 4

Manager Frank Lucchesi of the Texas Rangers is careful not to spoil a good thing—at least not off the field.

On the field, his Rangers have been doing everything possible to ruin the season for American League West front runner Kansas City. Texas, the only team with a winning record against the Royals this season, made it 11 victories in 15 games Monday night with a 5-4 victory.

Toby Harrah singled home Dave Moates to cap a four run Texas ninth inning and hand Kansas City its seventh loss in the last eight games, enabling second place Oakland to crawl within six games of first place.

Poughkeepsie Captures State Moose Tournament

KINGSTON—Poughkeepsie's Moose Club baseball team finally had a close game Monday morning and showed it could win with just a thin margin of victory as well as by the big score as it beat Syracuse, 3-2, to win the state tournament at the National field.

Ben Moore struck out 14 Syracuse batters and allowed only four hits and solo runs in the second and third innings. He was supported by Poughkeepsie's seven hits, including three by Rich Hannah as the winners scored two in the first and the winning run in the fourth.

Syracuse's Bob Dillmore, who whiffed six, took the loss. The final was the conclusion of the three-day, 20-team tourney.

Poughkeepsie made the finals on the strength of two victories on both Saturday and Sunday, including scores on the latter day of 10-3 over Kingston II and 8-1 over Riverhead. Syracuse got into the finals by topping Binghamton, 10-2, and Endicott, 6-0 Sunday.

Nonstop Solo Flight Across Pacific

Nippon War Ace Sets Air History

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. (UPI) — Japanese World War II flying ace Shoji Kawamoto landed 400 miles off target after becoming the first pilot to complete a solo nonstop flight across the Pacific in a single-engine aircraft.

"I was very tired," the 51-year-old former "Zero" fighter pilot said Monday after his 34-hour, 4,000-mile journey from Tokyo.

Kawamoto, credited with shooting down 19 Allied planes during the war, still had 100 gallons of fuel in his single-engine Comanche 260 craft when he landed at a small northern California airfield. His original destination had been Seattle, Wash.

"I did it for the Bicentennial spirit," said Kawamoto, whom air traffic controllers said dozed off and became disoriented as he approached the coast and began to descend while still 100 miles at sea. "His destination was Seattle but he started heading south," said federal aviation officials at the flight control center in Oakland, Calif.

Kawamoto stumbled wearily out of his cramped blue-and-white airplane, which had been converted to carry extra fuel and at first wasn't sure where he was. He looked around, brushed his rumpled business suit and smiled, saying it was air controllers who guided him to the wrong landing site.

The flier, who recently began operating a flight training school at Buena Park, Calif., said he ate very little en route for fear it would lull him to sleep. Kawamoto said he drank a quart of water and a quart of Japanese tea along with nibbling a dish of rice.

He said the worst part of the transpacific flight was over the Aleutians, where he worried about getting lost because of low clouds and poor visibility. The FAA said Kawamoto dozed off "several times" while they were in radio contact with him, which was the main reason they decided he should head for the nearest airfield.

"He was sleepy and disoriented," said Robert Downing, a flight service officer at the field. "But he landed normally and the plane had plenty of fuel left."

Kawamoto, who made good flight time with the help of a brisk tail wind, received an escort of two military planes as he approached the coast, the FAA said.

Kawamoto said although he prepared for six months for the flight, he wasn't able to sleep prior to takeoff because of 30 hours of frantic activity, including publicity appearances in Tokyo.

He told reporters in Tokyo he conceived the idea of flying over the Pacific in order to console the souls of Japanese and Allied troops killed during the war.

Kawamoto served during World War II at Rabaul Air Base on New Britain Island in the South Pa-

acific.

They Meet Halfway At Start

ST. IGNACE, Mich. (UPI) — Jerry Root and Verna Coger couldn't agree on whether they should be married in Michigan's Lower Peninsula or the Upper Peninsula.

They compromised Monday when they were near the middle of the Mackinac Bridge, which spans the two peninsulas at the Straits of Mackinac.

Since their vows coincided with the annual Labor Day bridge walk, the young couple had 26,500 persons on their guest list — including Gov. William G. Milliken.

"You couldn't ask for a more beautiful setting," said Root. "Anyway, why not on Labor Day when the governor and everyone else is there?"

Their argument over a wedding site was a regional dispute. Root is from Battle Creek in the Lower Peninsula; his bride is from Newberry in the Upper Peninsula.

Levitt: More Auditors Could Hike Tax Take

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt's office says statewide sales tax collections could be increased by tens of millions of dollars if more auditors were hired.

The Comptroller's report on the Sales Tax Unit of the city's Department of Tax Collection said the unit could also increase collections by changing certain procedures.

According to the report, only 1.5 per cent of the vendors in the state are covered by field auditors each year — "far short" of the 7 per cent regarded as a minimum by a 1967 State Tax Commission study. In fiscal 1975, gross statewide collections were about $2 billion, and the city's share was more than $791 million.

Statewide, the report said, field audits resulted in additional assessments of $82 million in 1973-74 and 1974-75.

"It is likely that this amount could have been increased by a minimum one-third ($27 million) with a proportionate increase in field audit coverage," Levitt said.

City Finance Commissioner Ivan E. Izzari said collections over the past year worked out to $2,600 per auditor workday, the highest in the state, he called it "an achievement that is difficult to improve upon."

Izzari said 16 new auditors were hired by the city unit last month, nearly doubling the staff. He said some of the report's recommendations already are being followed and most of the others were impractical or unnecessary.

One main point of dispute between Levitt and Izzari was the use of some auditors to assist income taxpayers.

Levitt said this violated the city's agreement with the state on administering the sales tax program, but Izzari disagreed. He said a "minimum number of experienced people" are needed to work with temporary employees hired for such periods.

The Levitt report maintained the city-state agreement "specifically forbids this practice."

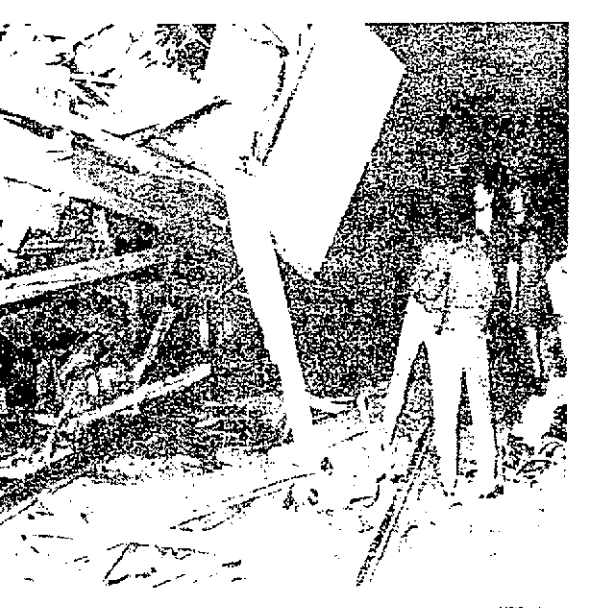

31 Dead in S. Africa Crash, Officials Rule Out Sabotage

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — A commuter train carrying blacks to a segregated township hurtled into a parked express train outside Johannesburg Monday, killing more than 30 persons in one of South Africa's worst rail disasters.

Although Johannesburg has been the scene of racial violence for more than two months, railroad officials ruled out sabotage.

Officials said at least 31 persons were killed and more than 70 injured when the commuter carrying blacks to the segregated township at Benoni, 30 miles east of Johannesburg, slammed into the rear of a parked express taking hundreds of mine workers home to Mozambique.

Screaming passengers, who

Rescue workers check wreckage.

The next thing I remember was standing next to the train looking down at a severed arm in the dust at my feet."

Witnesses said a guard in the rear of the Mozambique-bound train — which had stopped at a red light — threw himself out of the coach moments before it virtually disintegrated in the explosion.

While scores of ambulance workers and motorists from a nearby freeway ferried the dead and wounded to hospitals, railroad staff worked to repair the track — the main line to the eastern Transvaal province and Mozambique.

Despite the ferocity of the collision, damage to the line was minor and the express departed for the Mozambique capital of Maputo five hours after the crash.

Phantom Sought

NEW YORK (UPI) — Robert Low, in charge of seeing that New York's posters pass muster, said Monday he is searching for a "phantom poster plucker."

Somewhere in Queens, Low said, someone has been removing posters that were illegally pasted to city property, such as lamp posts and traffic signal boxes.

The Environmental Protection Agency administrator said he wants the phantom to come forward and submit evidence of his removal activities for consideration for an EPA "Partnership in Better Government" citation.

NOTICE OF CHANGE IN ELECTRIC RATE SCHEDULE

Pursuant to an order of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York, issued August 13, 1976 in Case 26913, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation filed amendments to rate schedule PSC No. 14—Electricity on September 1, 1976 to become effective on October 1, 1976. Said amendments set forth minimum insulation standards which must be met as a condition for obtaining electric service to a new one or two family residence for which a building permit is issued on or after April 1, 1977 or to a new multifamily residence for which a building permit is issued on or after July 1, 1977, or for obtaining expanded electric service to an existing residential premises for the purpose of supplying electric heat on or after April 1, 1977.

The insulation standards for new construction provide that coefficients of heat transmission (U) shall not exceed the following: roofs—.005 exterior walls—.012, floors over unheated garages—.005, glazing—.069, entrance and service doors—.040 and edge insulation or heat duct insulation—.020. Total glazing and entrance door area shall not exceed the following percentages of exterior wall area: 24% for detached homes, 33% for multifamily dwellings of three stories or less, and 42% for multifamily dwellings of more than three stories. Existing dwellings converted to electric heat must meet the above standards for roofs, glazing and exterior doors.

The detailed insulation standards are available for inspection at offices of the company.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 8

Your Birthday Today: You now start on a long search for ideal manifestation of human dignity. Material gains are not your primary concern this year, but do require persistent routine effort to continue your existing supply line. Relationships are volatile, must be based on complete integrity, shared convictions. Today's natives arouse public interest in various causes, go in for organizing reform movements, seldom are conventional.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Today has a fait accompli air, so accept what has happened. Commitments made now must later be revised. Slips of the tongue, lapses of memory are typical.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Nobody is easily pleased. Emotional flare-ups are quick, undisciplined. Pause to consider what you do and say. Set rigid schedules for travel, no detours.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Don't offer theories or suggestions. The general mood is "all dressed up and no place to go." Find humor in the situation so work can be a happy experience.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Stay where you're supposed to be, make the best of confusion. Long-lost items and people out of the past turn up, no ready explanations available.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The less you propose, the fewer hangups to cope with later. Review plans in solitude: find weak spots to correct. Loved ones hesitate to mention problems. Be gentle.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You hear almost anything listening to sales pitches. Skepticism is the most advisable attitude. Teammates get restless, as matters are beyond your reach.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Wait to answer messages from distant places; more reports are on the way. Social contacts are mixed; some enjoyable, some frustrating, due to travel delays.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Comment comes too easily and is harshly taken. Ignore criticism, don't volunteer opinions. Loved ones' wishes are hard to bring to reality.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Nearly anything goes except important business. That is colored by wishful thinking. You may let a personal secret slip in the rush of conversation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep clear records rather than depend on memory. Any appearances of cooperation are illusory. Concentrate on what falls within established custom.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Financial moves deserve much more investigation before you pull your savings out from where they are. Letting well enough alone today works to advantage.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Emotional tensions develop all around over everything, as it's that peak in a cycle. Take it in stride. Stay ahead with good behavior while others lapse.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D. LOSS: (Q.) My best friend had to move away. This just about tore me apart. You see, he is the only person that could help me at all. Also, and this may sound weird for a boy, but I love him very much as a friend and a brother. He is my blood brother.

I am about to go crazy because I miss him so much. I am 17 and he will be 17 in a few days. I want so much to send him a birthday card and a gift, but I don't know what his address is. He hasn't written me.

I am so depressed, and getting more so each day that I don't hear from him. Please help me if you can. -- Hurting in Alabama

(A.) It is not weird for one boy to love another boy as he would a brother. Do not be ashamed of this, and do not be distressed at your deep feeling of loss.

You undoubtedly will hear from your friend soon. But even if you don't, your pain at losing him will ease as time goes by.

Regardless of age or status in life, we all lose friends and loved ones. It is a part of life. It hurts us but from it we gain strength and greater appreciation of the people who are still near us.

THREE DAYS: (Q.) I like this boy named Kenny. He is a good kid and he asked me out. Before he asked me out, he called me every night. But we went out and now it's been three days and he hasn't called me a single time.

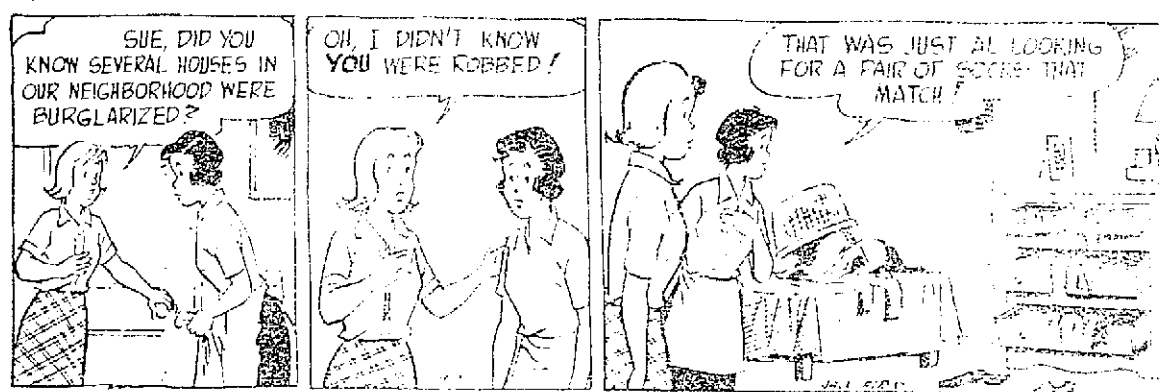

I've heard that he likes my friend, Sue. If so, why did he ask me out? I'm confused. Can you help me? -- Ignored in Connecticut.

(A.) Sometimes a boy isn't sure whether he likes a girl until he goes out with her. Maybe Kenny changed his mind about you while you were together.

Do not be angry. If he calls you again, do not fuss at him for not calling sooner. Be friendly and encouraging. That is about all you can do.

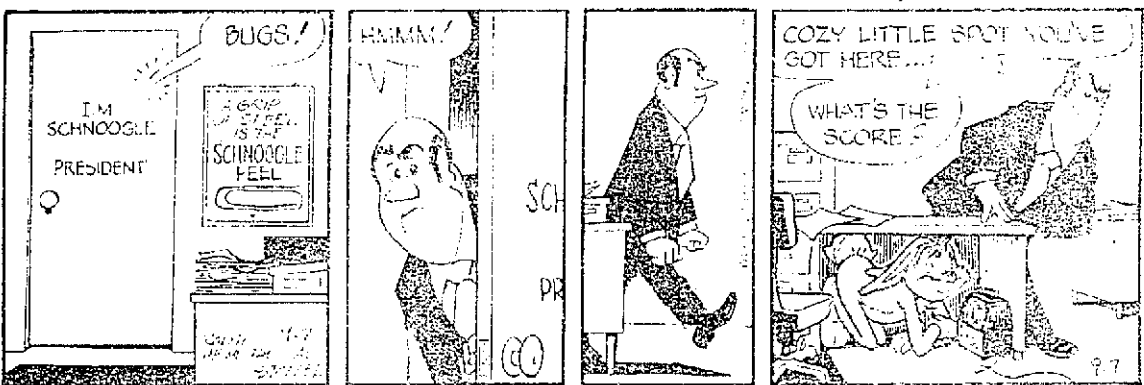

(Have a problem? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received, Dr. Adams cannot send personal replies.)

SHEINWOLD ON BRIDGE
SIMPLE RIDDLE

© 1976 Los Angeles Times

by Alfred Sheinwold

When is a bridge player not a bridge player? As every partner knows, the answer is: Usually. Now let's look at the bridge hand that brought this simple riddle to mind.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable

NORTH
♠ K 9 4
♥ J 10 5
♦ K J 4

WEST
♠ Q J 10 8
♥ A 9 8 4

♦ A Q 10 8

the high clubs out of his hand and lead a heart to dummy's ten. He cashes the queen of clubs and continues with the jack of hearts.

The defenders can take the ace of hearts and at most two diamonds, but South can eventually get back to his hand with the ace of spades to cash the last heart as his ninth trick.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: ♠ Q J 10 8 ♥ A 9 8 4 ♦ 9 7 3 ♣ 5 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You are tempted to show the spades, but your hand is worth only one voluntary bid and you should raise partner's major suit rather than show a suit of your own.

South took the ace of spades, cashed his high clubs and led a heart to dummy's ten. He then cashed the queen of clubs and continued with the jack of hearts.

West refused the trick, and South was in trouble: He was never going to get to his hand for the third heart trick.

Declarer continued hearts, and West took the ace. The jack of spades came back to dummy's king, and declarer got out of dummy with a spade in the hope that somebody would come to his rescue.

No such luck. West took two spades and led a diamond, whereupon East defeated the contract with two diamonds.

FIRST TRICK

The island police agency quoted Belenko as saying he had been planning for two years to seek asylum in the United States.

"Life in the Soviet Union today is like that of the czarist regime and there is no freedom," he was quoted as saying.

Belenko said he flew out of a Soviet air base in Siberia Monday, intending to fly into Chitose, a Japanese airport in northern Japan used by domestic airlines and Japan's air Self-Defense Force.

But instead, he landed at Hakodate Airport on the northernmost Japanese main island of Hokkaido, about 500 miles north of Tokyo, after flying at low altitude to avoid radar and chasers.

The defense radar at Chitose had spotted Belenko's plane but lost track of it as it descended and landed at Hakodate. The plane, also known as the Foxbat, overflew the airport's 2,300-foot runway and crashed into two radar antennas.

Belenko then hopped out of the cockpit and fired a pistol in the air, but did not resist capture.

"I'm a lieutenant in the Soviet air force," the pilot told an interpreter. "I want to go to the United States. The plane is a MiG25. Please cover it up and take good care of it."

The plane, which can fly at more 1,850 miles per hour and set an altitude record of nearly 119,000 feet more than three years ago, is considered a major intelligence prize for the West.

A State Department spokesman in Washington said disposition of the jet was "a Japanese problem," but an administration source had a different answer. "I imagine we will look it over," he said, smiling.

covery and will make unemployment worse in the long run. But they lack the votes to change it.

Until Congress passed the Budget and Impoundment Control Act of 1974, budgets were prepared by presidents. Congress never even examined them as a whole. It simply passed spending and tax bills one at a time.

The new budget process went into effect partially last year and fully for the first time this year.

Ford Readies New Pact Offer

DETROIT (UPI) — The Ford Motor Co. is preparing a second contract offer it hopes will be more acceptable to United Auto Workers Union whose 170,000 members at the No. 2 auto company are poised for a strike at midnight next Tuesday.

Sidney McKenna, Ford's chief negotiator, said after a brief Labor Day bargaining session Monday the exact timing for the new offer has not been decided.

He said negotiators are getting a little better feel of the overall situation and "the tempo is such that I think getting an agreement is quite doable."

McKenna said Ford bargainers had anticipated a rejection of the initial wage offer. But he said the auto company did not misread the union's goals and proposed things it knew might put Ford and the UAW on a collision course.

"There will have to be some alterations in that offer in order to reach an agreement," McKenna said. "It was never put forth as the last word."

The union last week rejected Ford's initial wage offer and said the likelihood of a strike appeared greater than at any time since the industry contract talks began in mid-July.

Current three-year industry-wide agreements expire at midnight, Sept. 14, but only Ford — the union's "target" — would be struck.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock, in blasting Ford's proposals as "take aways," said they would cost the average worker and his family $394 a year rather than give him economic gains.

Woodcock said the Ford proposal also failed to meet a key union demand for more paid days off the job — possibly 12

a year — in order to create jobs.

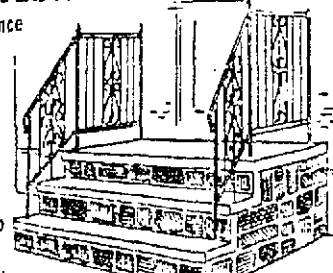

McKenna indicated there would have to be more meetings at the subcommittee level to learn where each side is going to stand firm before the second proposal is made.
